State board defers Vista hospital plan

December session might end competition for med center in Lindenhurst, Round Lake

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

CHICAGO - Vista Health Systems and Advocate Health Care have been in a virtual race since the beginning of the calendar year - each with its own plan for a hospital in northwest Lake County.

After several delays, Waukegan-based Vista Health Systems submitted its plan to the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board, which put it on the October agenda.

On Tuesday afternoon, Nate Llewellyn, manager of communications for Advocate Health Care, said the health planning board deferred Vista's plan to the December meeting.

After the decision, Vista Health System President and CEO Barbara J. Martin issued a statement.

"Vista Health System views this deferral as a very positive outcome from today's meeting," the statement read. "In light of the new rules, we are delighted the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board requested Vista defer our application to the next meeting. 'I eagerly await the opportunity to speak before the planning board again in December.'"

Llewellyn said the health planning board cited pending rule changes as its reason to defer its ruling on Vista.

Competing plans

• Vista's plan calls for a 215,000-square-foot, 140-bed medical center with 21 emergency room beds, five operating rooms, a catheterization lab, and full radiology services. The roughly $100 million facility would be on Route 132 in Lindenhurst.

• Advocate's plan is for 144 single hospital rooms and a level II trauma center on 57 acres at Route 120 and Wilson Road in Round Lake, with an overall cost estimated at $239 million.

Local news is key to our success

Every week I field several phone calls and even more e-mails regarding local events, people, and stories that readers would like to see in their Journal.

These queries come in the form of press releases, photo requests, letters to the editor, or sometimes just notes from local residents who want to offer thoughts on the paper. All of the above are integral to what we do.

The driving force behind the Lake County Journals is local news, local photographs, local coverage of sports, and local people being profiled for doing interesting things in

there are no simple answers.

George Morris, MD (center), director of the Regional Epilepsy Center, Veronica Sosa, MD, and Christopher Ingles, MD are leading the way to more effective treatment of epilepsy.

At the Regional Epilepsy Center, we take a specialized approach that emphasizes comprehensive diagnosis and treatment, and a team approach to care. Working together, our nationally recognized neurologists and neurosurgeons are dedicated to helping each individual patient. The result is hundreds who have seen their seizures reduced or eliminated altogether.<sup>1</sup>

The National Association of Epilepsy Centers has recognized our program with a Level 4 designation, the highest possible and indicating that we offer the broadest range of medical and surgical treatment options. Our comprehensive offering includes all FDA-approved anti-seizure medications, investigational medication trials, and a team of neuroscientists to apply advanced surgical techniques where necessary. Another treatment option we offer is the Vagus Nerve Stimulator, which is an alternative to surgery. A "pacemaker for the brain", this device is implanted under the skin and delivers an electric shock to the Vagus nerve throughout the day to control or prevent seizures. Sub-specialist care is also available in pediatric neurology and the management of epilepsy in women.

We treat both adults and children and have an active Second Opinion Program, which begins with a comprehensive evaluation at our specialized facility at Aurora St. Luke's Medical Center.

<sup>1</sup> Statistics show that 85% of patients treated at the Regional Epilepsy Center achieve a 90% or greater reduction in seizures.

A show and tell to remember

Grandparents and students fill the halls at W.C. Petty Elementary in Antioch during Grandparents Day.

Good turn out numbers accompany Grandparents Day

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH — Elementary school consists of a lot of waiting in line. Lining up to go to recess. Lining up to go to lunch. Lining up to go to the restroom.

Students in every grade and of every age do it, but last week at W.C. Petty Elementary School in Antioch, there was an odd line of people waiting around.

Despite the rainy and cold day, W.C. Petty had a good turn out Oct. 19 for Grandparents Day, also known as Very Important Person Day.

Students in each class could invite his or her grandparents, to an elaborate sort of "show and tell."

Those students who didn't have grandparents of their own on hand were able to share with students who did. They got to ask the grandparents some really personal questions, like when they were born.

Other questions were about memories of school, what he or she did in their working life, and what was their favorite food.

Ted Martinek, a fourth-grader in teacher Emily Walker's room, read from a questionnaire that his grandmother, Pauline Martinek, filled out.

"She was born in 1937 in Minnesota ... " Ted told his classmates.

Pauline told the students that she went to school in what would be considered a "one-room schoolhouse," where eight different grades were taught in the same class.

Another pair of grandparents talked about "corporal punishment." In their day, children who misbehaved were often cracked across the knuckles with a ruler.

"And we just use rulers for measuring," Walker said with a laugh.

Paige Gruber, 9, of Antioch, said she enjoyed having her grandparents in class.

"It was cool seeing all of my friends' grandparents," Paige Gruber said. "I liked asking all the questions." Cheryl and George Rigert, of Antioch, came out to their granddaughter Melissa Sloat's fourth-grade class.

"It was great; we got two big hugs," Cheryl Rigert said.

"Of course the kids thought we were ancient," she added with a laugh.

After the event was complete, the grandparents lined up, filed out, and enjoyed some cookies and coffee before leaving the students to the rest of their day.

Kids give a hoot about leadership

Middle-schoolers embark in problem-solving retreat

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

LAKE VILLA - If John Hughes' 1985 film "The Breakfast Club" has taught us anything as a society, it's that under the right circumstances, different people can come together and, the experience can change a person's life.

Nearly 130 eighth-graders from Palombi Middle School had one of these life-changing opportunities recently.

Julie Pozezinski, middle school social worker, said three groups of Palombi students participated in the Outdoor Wisconsin Leadership Synergies (OWLS).

Pozezinski said the overnight retreat provides eighth-graders team building, problem solving, and leadership training in the great outdoors.

"Kids find themselves," Pozezinski said. "The program forces them to interact with other people they don't usually."

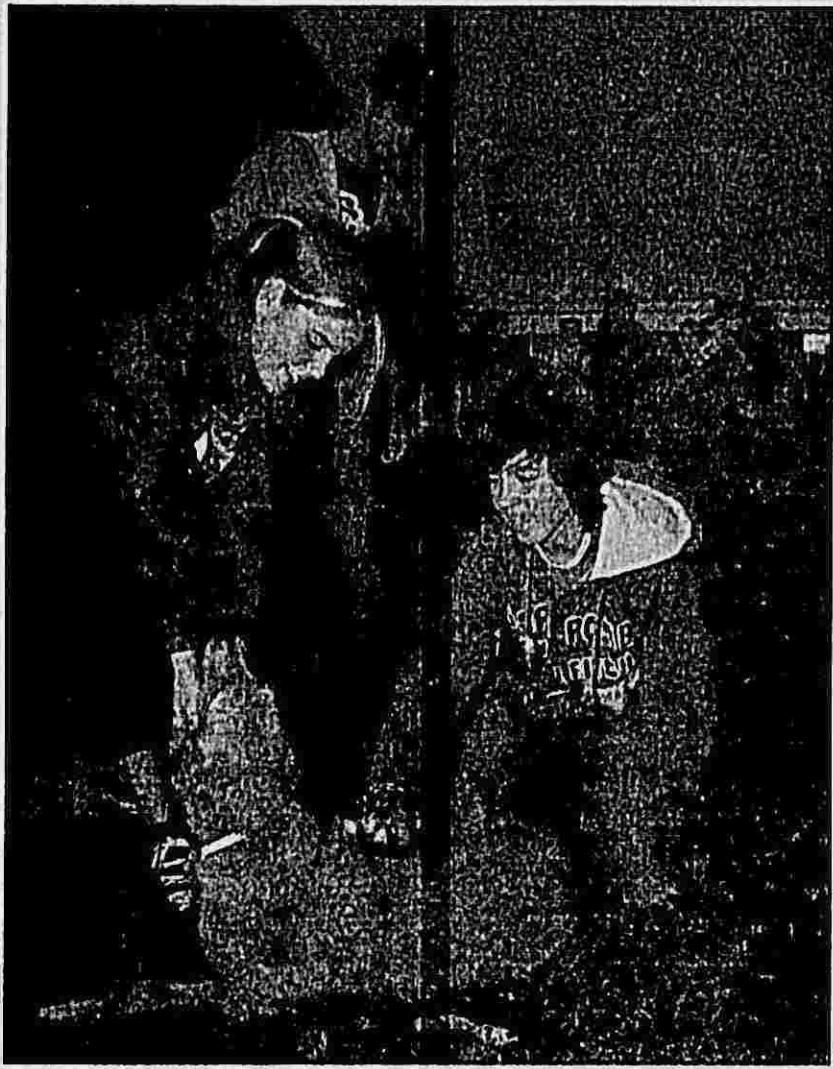

OWLS is an overnight program where the students travel to Lake Geneva, Wis., and get to stay on the campus of Aurora University. For some students, this is the first time they are away from their parents.

Several staff members go along to serve as chaperones, and Pozezinski said it's good for the students to see their teachers in a different environment, and vice versa.

In OWLS, students participate in ropes courses, tower climbing, along with other situations that will challenge them physically and emotionally. Pozezinski said students are not allowed to use phrases like "I can't."

They are encouraged to set goals, push themselves harder, and find the strength to say "I can."

In one instance, Pozezinski remembers being tethered to

Candace H. Johnson - wnnews@nwnewsgroup.com

Palombi Middle School eighth-grader Steven Fletcher (right), pets his dog Zoie along with classmates Allie Woodward and Zack Styx. The students recently returned from a student leadership retreat.

a shy young lady on a climbing wall. Pozezinski said the girl was so shy, she was surprised that she came along.

"She froze on the wall," Pozezinski recalls. "She couldn't move, so I couldn't move."

After gentle and consistent encouragement, the young lady worked her way to the top of the wall, and cried with joy once she made it. Pozezinski teased up recalling the incident.

"After that, a whole new personality emerged," she said.

In the past, Pozezinski said, she's had the occasional student she has had reservations about before going.

"But I've never regretted taking them," she said.

Once the kids are back, many parents remark that they are tired and cranky, but enthusiastic about what they have endured.

"They are so much more accepting of their peers, and relaxed. They can handle things better," Pozezinski said.

She said most Palombi students know another student who has gone before, so OWLS usually isn't a tough sell. This year's group is the largest of those that have gone in the last 15 years.

The program is open to every eighth-grade student, but Pozezinski said the $175 cost is prohibitive for some families. In some instances, there are scholarships available. She said one anonymous parent donated the full tuition for a student to attend.

"We wish we could take all of them," Pozezinski said.

Village takes steps to ban excessive phosphorus use

Other communities look to reduce lake pollution

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

ANTIOCH - In recent months, members of the Antioch Village Board might have gotten the reputation of being a board that doesn't often find common ground. At its most recent regular meeting, however, the board acted as one, with the passage of an ordinance that will ban the use of lawn fertilizers that contain phosphorus.

Jim Keim, director of physical services for the village of Antioch, said the village had been approached over the summer by the Illinois Chapter of the Sierra Club on the issue of banning fertilizers that contain phosphorus.

"And the village thought it was a good idea," Keim said.

According to a press release from the Illinois Chapter of the Sierra Club, the organization thinks Antioch is the first community in Illinois to have banned phosphorus fertilizer.

"The village is very proud to be at the forefront of this environmental issue," Keim said.

Environmental groups

"The village is very proud to be at the forefront of this environmental issue."

Jim Keim
Antioch's director of physical services

such as the Sierra Club concede phosphorus is good for plant growth, but bad for lakes and rivers. After fertilizers containing phosphorus are applied to the ground, rainwater can wash the chemical into water sources.

"Phosphorus fuels the growth of algae, often to the point where the algae suck oxygen out of the water needed by fish and other aquatic life," said Dr. Cynthia Skrukud, Clean Water Advocate for the Sierra Club, Illinois Chapter. "Unnatural 'blooms' of algae and other plant life can also cause odor problems and obstructions for boaters."

Keim said current research indicates that the community's soil already contains a lot of naturally-occurring phosphorus.

Skrukud said both Lake Marie and the Chain O'Lakes are exhibiting signs of what she describes as "phosphorus overload."

Many area retailers already offer a variety of fertilizers that don't contain phosphorus, so Keim thinks that they are "on board" with the ban.

"Our residents will get behind it," he adds. "We don't feel they'll notice a difference [in fertilizer]."

Tim Pasternak, secretary of the Lakes Management Commission of Round Lake, said he and other members of the commission "applaud ... the landmark decision."

The Lakes Management Commission represents the three villages that surround Round Lake, including the village of Round Lake, Round Lake Beach, and Round Lake Park.

"It paves a way for others," Pasternak said. "It's something we're considering. If it makes sense, it's something we'd bring forward."

Lahr finds board deferral disappointing

• HOSPITALS

He said he did not know the specifics of the expected changes but believed it would center on population projections and migration factors.

As for Advocate's plan, which also is expected to appear on the board's December agenda, Llewellyn said he does not anticipate administrators making any changes.

"We feel we have a very strong proposal to meet the needs in Lake County, and we look forward to presenting under the new context," Llewellyn said.

Advocate had expected to be on this month's agenda, but Llewellyn said administrators revised the plan, which included a change in the construction cost per square foot.

"We didn't know if the change would hold us up," Llewellyn said.

Once the planning board's agenda was posted on its Web site last week, Advocate found it had been left off the agenda.

Advocate's plan is for a hospital with 144 single hospital rooms, a Level II trauma center. The hospital would be built on 57 acres at Route 120 and Wilson Road in Round Lake, with an overall cost estimated of $239 million.

Llewellyn said both plans are expected to end up on the agenda for the IHFPB meeting, scheduled for Dec. 4 and 5 at the Hilton Garden Inn in Chicago.

Lindenhurst Village Board President Susan Lahr said she found news of the deferral "a little disappointing," but hopes that the planning board still finds Vista's plan for Lindenhurst important, and gets the information they require to make a decision.

Jackie Bailis, former director of communications for Advocate Health Care, had said previously that it is not uncommon for the health facilities planning board to defer plans.

"They [IHFPB] can also defer it, because they need more information. They can defer it with the intent to approve it, or the intent to deny it," Bailis said.

Bailis said each set of hospital administrators will have a turn at a table in front of the planning board to make a last pitch during their presentations.

"There are usually four people on the hospital panel," she said. "One is usually the CEO, and the person in charge of planning."

The other two members are generally wild card spots.

Bailis said the hospital administrators also can defer their answers to two others not on the panel. The administrators give their opening remarks, make their case, and answer questions from planning board members.

The board often makes its decision at the end of the question-and-answer session. If hospital administrators get the impression their proposal is going to be denied, they can withdraw it and defer to the next month, as Vista did in July.

Gurnee children learn how to teach an old dog news tricks

By HELEN MANSFIELD
hmansfield@nwnewsgroup.com

GURNEE - In some circles, Robin Bengtson is quite a celebrity. But she's not as much of a celebrity as her canine companions Starlight and Slater.

Bengtson is the owner and operator of Robin's Dog Stars in Lake Villa. She has trained her own dogs to do tricks and makes a business training others. She also works with owners to correct dog behavior issues.

Starlight is a 7-year-old golden retriever, and Slater a 5-year-old labrador retriever. The pair had their first performance Oct. 20 at Warren Newport Public Library before a crowd of more than 60 people.

Patty Sawin, with children's and programing department at Warren Newport Public Library, said the group was quite a hit, and she will try and get them back.

"We had 65 people," Sawin said. "It was wonderful."

The program title was "How Dogs Help People," and Bengtson had Starlight and Slater perform duties similar to the ones companion dogs would do on a daily basis.

"Dogs can open the fridge door [and] make beds,"

Bengtson said.

Most people know of dogs that work with police officers, searching for missing people or drugs, Bengtson said dogs work with custom officials at airports, making sure that foreign produce doesn't enter the country. Those fruits and vegetables can carry insects that could harm native-grown produce.

Sawin said Warren Newport Public Library will collect donations for Save-A-Pet Adoption Center in Grayslake. The no-kill shelter has a number of "wish list" items on its Web site, including dog and cat food, along with office and first-aid supplies.

Warren Newport Public Library has a table set up near the circulation desk and will collect items through Wednesday, Oct. 31.

Myths and Facts about Hospice Care

Myth #6 of 12: Hospice care is only for the last days of life.

Fact: Unfortunately many patients wait too long to enter hospice care. The benefits of Monarch Hospice have been designed around a family-centered concept of care that should begin as soon as the decision to end curative treatment takes place.

CLC hosts gala for scholarships

Each year, the College of Lake County Foundation awards about $500,000 in scholarships to students at the college. An important fundraiser to support this effort is the annual Scholarship Gala, which will be Saturday, Oct. 27, at the Adler Planetarium in Chicago.

Well-known community leaders Charles R. "Chuck" and Teresa Hall Bartels will be recognized at the gala as the event's honorary chairs.

The Bartels have been active in fundraising and community service projects in Lake County for nearly 30 years, according to a release. Playing off the gala's venue, the theme is "Out of This World." The evening will begin with a reception and silent auction at 6:30 p.m., after that will be a gourmet dinner featuring food from around the world. Other activities are a live auction and entertainment by The Orchestra 33. Raffle tickets are now on sale for $25 each or five for $100. The grand prize for the annual raffle is a 50/50 cash raffle, with only 1,000 tickets being sold.

For many attendees, the annual fall gala is a source of unusual and intriguing holiday gift items. From get-away travel packages to luxury furs and jewelry, the evening will provide lots of "out of this world" items. Expected to be particularly popular are the specialty gift baskets, donated by CLC employees, and the celebrity doodles from major figures like actors Anthony Hopkins, Dr. Phil and Kiefer Sutherland.

Autism therapeutic school coming to Waukegan

State Sen. Terry Link, D-Waukegan, and Easter Seals Metropolitan Chicago (ESMC) are set to celebrate the opening of Easter Seals' new Autism Therapeutic School at the Ann M. Kiley Center in Waukegan on Monday, Oct. 29.

An open house will take place from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. with a ribbon cutting ceremony at 11 a.m.

The new school is the first program in Lake County under the administration of ESMC and will serve 60 new students ranging from ages 3 to 22 with a primary diagnosis of autism, emotional behavior disorders and/or learning disabilities, according to a release from ESMC.

"We're so excited to invite the community to see our new Autism Therapeutic School," Barbara Zawacki, chief operating officer of ESMC, said in a statement. "The new school will offer Lake County families a variety of specialized programs by extending the services they currently receive through Waukegan's public schools. Our ultimate goal is to transition these children back into their communities and home schools and help them reach their full potential."

Chills, thrills lie ahead

Library hosts second annual Ray Bradbury Storytelling Festival

By YADIRA SANCHEZ OLSON
ysanchez@nwnewsgroup.com

WAUKEGAN - If things that lurk at night don't frighten you, and sounds that go bump in the dark don't make you shiver, then October is probably just another month.

But for those who like the chills and thrills that the Halloween month brings, Literary Monsters might be just the ticket.

Literary Monsters is the second annual Ray Bradbury Storytelling Festival that will take place Oct. 26 at Genesee Theatre in Waukegan.

Three nationally known storytellers will bring to life the literary monsters of the past.

Sponsoring the event in honor of Waukegan-born writer Ray Bradbury is the Waukegan Public Library.

"Last year most of the stories were Ray Bradbury's stories," Elizabeth M. Stearns, the library's Assistant Director of Community Services said. "This year we chose stories from some of the writers that inspired him."

Those stories include Mary Shelley's "Frankenstein," Bram Stoker's "Dracula," and Edgar Allen Poe's "Fall of the House of Usher."

Two performances are scheduled for Oct. 26. The first show at 10 a.m. is exclusive to school field trips.

The late show, "Courting with Darkness," begins at 8 p.m. and is aimed at a more mature audience. This performance includes video clips of an interview with the man himself, Ray Bradbury, in which he speaks about the influences in his writing.

"There will be un-fortune tellers, gypsies, and caricatures [drawn] by me," said Richard Lee, executive director of the Waukegan Public Library. "What we want to do is create a Halloween event that is part of the community."

The library board hopes that this is an event that becomes part of Waukegan's yearly events, Lee said.

and Jon Spellman - are all award winners and travel the U.S. sharing the ancient art form of storytelling.

Born in Lindenhurst, Megan Wells, who also is the show's artistic director, said that storytelling is "like you're watching a movie in your head, like mind cinema; the audience is imagining what I'm describing."

So if you're in need of a good scare, you can get your tickets for Ray Bradbury's Second Annual Festival: Literary Monsters, which are available at The Genesee Theatre's Box Office and all Ticketmaster outlets.

Bradbury cites Waukegan as inspiration

By YADIRA SANCHEZ OLSON
ysanchez@nwnewsgroup.com

The Lake County Journals had an opportunity to talk with the legend, Ray Bradbury, via phone and ask him some questions about his career.

In what ways has your hometown [Waukegan] inspired you?

Well I grew up in Waukegan until I was 13 and I lived at St. James street. And everyday I went to school walking across the ravine; so the ravine became part of my life. And I went to Central School and then came back through the ravine, so the ravine played a central place in my life, and that's what happened to me and I put it in all my books.

What aspect of your career have you enjoyed the most over the years?

All of it, because I've loved so many things and by being in love with a variety of things, they've all come to pass. So every aspect of my career has been perfect, because I've wanted to be a novelist, a short story writer, a poet and a playwright. So you can't beat that can you?

What was your childhood like?

It was fantastic, because I played in the ravine and I became Tarzan. I played in the ravine and I became King Kong. I played in the ravine and I became Lon Chaney in the Phantom of the Opera. So the ravine, you see, was the center of my life.

What do you hope readers gain from your body of work?

I hope they gain being in love with life. I discovered I was in love when I was 12 and everyday since I didn't regret that I was alive. I didn't think I was going to live to be 87 but, by God, I made it and I look back and by being in love with life I've never had a day when I was depressed. No melancholy, no doubt - nothing. The only sad days in my life have been those days when friends died; when my mother and father died and when my wife passed away. Those were sad days but the other days have all been great because I loved what I was doing. That's the secret of living.

What goes into your creative process when developing a new story idea?

I do not develop ideas, I explode, so there's no creative process. It's an instant explosion; I get up in the morning ... and I jumped out of bed and I go and write a story, but there's no process. I do not develop a story. It develops itself and is born in 10 seconds. It explodes and I put down the explosion.

What advice do you have for today's aspiring writers?

There's only one thing to do, love what you do and do what you love. Don't listen to anyone else. They can't tell you what to write, they'll tell you wrong. So you follow your secret self, what you want is what counts, so don't listen to anyone else, they'll get in your way. And to hell with them, get them out of the way. So my advice is be in love with life, be in love with writing and love what you do. And that's the story of my whole life, everything I've done has been done out of love. That's the only advice I can give young writers.

Looking back on your career, of what are you most proud of?

I'm proud of the whole damn thing! I'm proud of my entire life. It's been great. Look where I am now, my God I can't believe it. So I've written 1,000 stories and published 500 hundred of them. I've published 500 poems. I never dreamt when I was in high school that I would ever write one poem worth writing. When I left high school, I couldn't write a short story and after a period of time I began to write short stories, so my career has been perfect. I've done what I want to do. I look back and it's wonderful.

Matijevich

>> SeeingItThrough

Having another high-end, high-cost golf course in Lake County would be nice, but is it really necessary, columnist John Matijevich writes. The restriction clause in the purchase of Fort Sheridan Golf Course has become more of a pain for the Lake County Forest Preserve than the land is worth. Perhaps the district should aim for a low-key course instead.

Journalists need a shield

A federal shield law for journalists garnered strong support in the House recently with a 398-21 vote.

The law would allow reporters to protect the confidentiality of sources in most federal cases. The law became a hot topic during Special Counsel Patrick Fitzgerald's investigation into the CIA leak case.

Fitzgerald ended up jailing former New York Times reporter Judith Miller in the case when she refused to reveal sources for a story she was working on. Miller was jailed for 85 days in 2005 after she refused to name which Bush administration official had talked with her about CIA agent Valerie Plame.

Under the new law, reporters still could be compelled to reveal information. However, such situations are limited to exemptions such as to prevent acts of terrorism or to prevent harm to national security. A judge ultimately would decide whether a reporter is compelled to reveal confidential sources under the exemptions.

That provision appears to be reasonable and fair. It safeguards the free press, but also addresses concerns about national security. Yet President Bush still has indicated that he will veto the legislation if it is approved by the Senate.

The fact is that confidential sources often play an essential role in journalism. And a free and vibrant press is needed in a democratic society. In just the last few years, some of the most important stories have involved confidential sources, be it Abu Ghraib or reports on the shoddy conditions at Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Journalists have to be able to do their job. And sometimes that job involves disseminating information that the government does not want released or would rather not have reported. If journalists are forced under threat of incarceration to reveal sources, the free press is jeopardized.

Committee appoints County Board member

Lake County Board Member David Stolman, who represents the Buffalo Grove and Long Grove area, has recently been named a member of the National Association of Counties' (NACo) Transportation Steering Committee by NACo President Eric Coleman. The Illinois Counties Association nominated Stolman to represent the state's counties on the committee.

"Our participation with NACo helps Lake County citizens because we can bring our transportation issues to the forefront and lobby for federal funding for transportation projects, which is one of the County Board's top priorities," Stolman said. "For instance, Lake County received federal funding for the widening of Deerfield Road and many of our other projects."

David Stolman
Lake County Board District 20
member

The Transportation Steering Committee focuses on matters pertaining to comprehensive transportation.

The steering committee's recommendations on legislative policies and goals are presented to NACo's membership during the association's Annual Conference. If approved, the recommendations become part of the American County Platform, which is the basis of NACo's efforts in representing counties before Congress and the White House.

Independent fund

Gov. Blagojevich recently announced nearly $2.8 million in grants to help Illinois seniors and residents with disabilities live independently in their own homes and communities.

Funding for the Home Modification Program has more than doubled from last year to $2.3 million and will help 140 low-income seniors and individuals with disabilities across Illinois afford home accessibility improvements, according to a release from the Governor's Office.

The Nursing Home Diversion Modernization (NHDM) Grants Program will serve 300 individuals in an 18 month pilot project, and increase the flexibility of service options for all Illinois seniors, according to the release.

"Seniors and people with disabilities should be able to stay in their own homes and communities and live safely and independently," Blagojevich said. "This funding will help them make basic, but necessary, home improvements so that they can remain living in their own homes and avoid having to move to nursing homes or other institutions."

The Illinois Housing Development Authority (IHDA), as part of the state's comprehensive housing plan initiatives, will allocate the $2.3 million in grants to 12 nonprofit organizations and public agencies around the state to administer the Program locally.

A local recipient of the 2007 Home Modification Program grant is the Ramp Up Foundation, which serves Lake County.

Each eligible household can receive between $15,000 to $25,000 as a five-year forgivable loan to spend on modifications that address accessibility or health and safety concerns. The funds are expected to be available in early 2008.

For more information about the NHDM grant, CCP and other services for seniors, contact your local Area Agency on Aging or call the Senior HelpLine at 800-252-8966.

Clean up a success

To the editor:

Thank you from the Antioch Garden Club. Here is a wonderful example of the thoughtful kind citizens of our great small town.

As 12 members of The Antioch Garden Club worked at their annual fall clean-up tasks in the village gardens on Oct. 11, a young woman in a red Chevrolet pickup truck (who didn't give us her name) committed a random act of kindness. She took time and money out of her day to bring a box of Dunkin' Donuts and a gallon of hot coffee to ease the chill off our task.

Our sincere thanks to this anonymous young woman. Her kind act was appreciated by all.

Train horns blow no more

To the editor:

Compliments are due to Bill Brimm, village manager of Buffalo Grove, for his unending devotion to getting the train horns to cease along the Canadian National Railway as of Oct. 12. He has been working on this issue now for almost two years.

This is a project that was shepherded by Alan

Knutsen of Antioch Township starting some five or six years ago, for then Village President Taso Maravelas of Antioch, the highlight of which was to call a meeting of the Lake County Mayors Council to bring to its attention the possibilities of getting this nuisance noise stopped.

Out of that meeting came the passion of Bill Brimm, to work with the state and federal powers to be, to develop a plan for seven communities stretching from Antioch to Buffalo Grove to get the trains to cease and desist the blaring of train horns at all hours of the day and night.

Bill has succeeded for the benefit of all citizens of Antioch, Lake Villa, Round Lake Beach, Grayslake, Mundelein, Vernon Hills and Buffalo Grove who finally achieved the reward of sleeping nights, instead of sleepless nights.

The irony of this crusade is that it was accomplished with almost zero cost to taxpayers; by the simple task of posting of "No Train Horns" signs at each crossing.

unaware of the fossil evidence showing step-by-step the evolution of the whale from its land-bound ancestors Ambulocetus, through Rodhocetus and Basilosaurus. Even without the fossil evidence, recent discoveries in molecular biology and DNA sequencing prove evolution as surely as a DNA match convicts a killer.

Another writer mistakenly stated that evolution is based on chance.

Actually, it is based on chance genetic variation constrained by natural selection.

This makes all the difference in the world.

Opponents of evolution cite Michael Behe's argument of irreducible complexity or William Dembski's argument from probability.

Both appeal to those unfamiliar with evolution but easily have been demolished by scientists.

As we become adept at modifying DNA, science could simulate evolution through genetic mutation creating new species and see which survive natural selection.

Obviously such a dangerous experiment never would be permitted.

Evolution is well explained in "Life Evolving" by Noble Prize winner Christian de Duve, "Evolution vs. Creationism" by Eugenie Scott, and "Genesis" by Robert Hazen.

Regardless of overwhelming evidence for evolution, creationists always will prefer the myth of Adam and Eve despite zero evidence.

Fort Sheridan Golf Course's future in question

The golfing season is about over. More than golfers, the courses have been inundated with Canada geese that have scattered the courses with droppings. The geese would be welcome to drop by if it weren't for the mess they leave behind. But, that's another problem for another day.

With the season gone by, I thought I would call Tom Hahn, executive director of the Lake County Forest Preserve District, and get an update on the Fort Sheridan Golf Course issues. As you know, that's been in limbo until the district settles the suit regarding the payment of the humongous dirt and debris pile left by the developer who built the Town of Fort Sheridan project.

The cost of the debris removal has been projected at $4 million or more. Hahn said that a settlement is very near with only a few issues remaining to resolve the matter.

Whether the district is legally bound to build a golf course became a technical issue when a group that doesn't want a course petitioned the district to find out whether the project had to proceed.

I didn't think that would fly as the agreement with the U.S. Army when the district bought the 258 acres that carried a deed restriction mandating that a golf course be maintained there. Hahn said that the district's attorney checked into it and concluded that the deed restriction must be upheld.

Now comes the nitty, gritty issue. The golf course must be reconstructed, but at what cost? When the district went out for bids for golf-related improvements, the bids came back from $5 to $9 million dollars over budget.

Even with a master plan that included a "high-end" reconstruction project, no one anticipated that costs would be that high. Back to the drawing board.

The district has contracted with a golfing consultant firm to conduct an audit of all of the preserve courses including the market potential of the course at Fort Sheridan. Hahn said that the audit is to make certain that courses continue to be paid out of golf revenues, not taxpayer dollars.

I have always maintained that one "high-end" golf course, Thunderhawk, is enough for Lake County. The deed restriction nowhere says that the Fort Sheridan course must be a premier course.

There has been a proliferation of courses, public and private, built in the last 20 years. That saturation means that it is becoming very difficult for courses to be profitable.

Many courses have found that this year has been the first of what might be a downturn trend. For public courses, it might be that they will have to raise fees on golfers, otherwise they would have to shift the burden on taxpayers.

The golf course at Fort Sheridan must be one that will be affordable for all golfers in Lake County. If the commissioners of the Lake County Forest Preserve District build another "high-end, high-cost" golf course, they will incur the wrath of the electorate who have always supported their referendums. That would be counter-productive.

Any estimates on when you can call to reserve a tee-time?

Uncommon nurse.

For Lake Forest Hospital Nurse Claudia Ronayne, helping those in need begins in the garden.

One of 13 children, Claudia Ronayne learned about nurturing in her grandmother's vegetable garden. It was a lesson she would never forget. Today, the director of clinical information systems and 20-year Lake Forest Hospital nursing veteran leads the use of data and technology to improve patient care. In the field, she guides a team of growers who raise more than 5,000 pounds of produce each year and donate their harvest to area food pantries and residential facilities.

Claudia is one of the uncommon nurses who makes Lake Forest Hospital different from the rest.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS

This is to inform you that there is a possibility you may be contacted by someone trying to scam you. The scammers use plays such as offering to pay you a "processing fee" for depositing checks and sending a percentage back to them. These checks are FAKE and YOU will be held liable for repaying the funds to the bank. Typically the scammers will contact you via email or via a phone letter system for the hearing impaired so you don't know where they are calling from or what they sound like.

Recently arrests were made in the Netherlands, Nigeria & Canada with fake checks worth more than $2.1 billion dollars. The average victim of this scam loses $3000 to $4000.

Please Be Cautious.

Auto Connection

"One Call Can Fix It All"

Celebrating Our 18th Year

AUTO CONNECTION CELEBRATING 18 YEARS OF SERVING THE COMMUNITY

This year Bruce Skidds is celebrating 18 years in business in a rather unique way. After retiring from the corporate world, and having had a passion for working on restoring his own cars, people started asking for help with their cars; so in 1989 he opened Auto Connection, hiring a young part time mechanic, as time evolved it turned into full time. Now he employs 2 full time master technicians and has a host of up to date equipment. His technicians are continually attending school to keep up with the latest technology.

To celebrate the longevity of his business this year he was able to pay off the building. Instead of adding on or building a new building he decided to keep the old one and pass his saving along to his customers. The October and November Special is $14.95 for an oil change, most vehicles. November Special will be a Winterization Special (Including 1 gallon of Anti Freeze) for only $39.95.

Auto Connection offers full service bumper to bumper service with all work full guaranteed. Pricing is competitive - no repair work is done with prior approval no surprises here. Complimentary loaner cars are supplied or if you prefer "door to door" service is available.

They service both foreign and domestic cars, brand new or the "oldies". Customers receive a monthly mailing containing Auto Connection Bucks which can be used on future repairs or maintenance.

Auto Connection services commercial accounts too; There are a fleet of 28 commercial vehicles and another of 7 large trucks just to name a few are regular accounts.

Bruce says Auto Connection is a family owned business and "will treat you like we want to be treated, every auto needs maintenance, so give us a try". Believing so much in the "family" all of our regular customer kids (we've watched grow from "knee hugger") received their first oil change FREE when they start driving.

Every year Bruce sponsors a Car Show, this year 72 vehicles were entered, 230 plates of complimentary food was served along with live music and lots of gifts and prizes.

Bruce ends with "We're nothing pretty, nothing fancy, but we give darn good service"

Just a sample of how our customers feel.

Host a childrens Halloween party without stress

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

If there was ever a holiday that can capture a person's spirit, it seems to be Halloween. For one day out of the year, it's acceptable for people to be someone else, eat all the tooth-rotting candy possible, and to throw a great party.

For many children, Halloween seems to be one of the greatest days of the year. But how do parents enhance childrens' fun? One way might be to make Halloween '07 a memorable one by throwing a great party.

To host a successful childrens Halloween party, you need to plan decorations, games, and lots of spooky creativity.

Beyond using simple creativity, you also can use the Internet. The Internet's full of Halloween party ideas that are both simple and cheap. There are a multitude of different Halloween party themes for children. Some are old classics that have been around for years, while others are updated for the times.

Here are some themes About.com (www.childparenting.about.com) suggested:

Get the party started

Below are some Web sites to help get your party started.

- party.kaboose.com
• This site has party ideas for every holiday, but there are plenty of Halloween ideas to go around.
- www.childparenting.about.com
• This site provides ideas for all kinds of childrens parties and also has individual pages for Halloween costumes, parties, and more.
- www.rats2u.com/halloween
• This site has plenty of ideas to look through.

Spooky Halloween party

About.com writer Kathy Ross suggested that people go back to the basics. Create a good old-fashioned haunted house that's "fun for older children, but not too much for the little ones."

How to create a haunted house

- Use decorations like fake cobwebs, candles, and ghostly music to create a spooky atmosphere.
- "Hang pairs of free-floating eyeballs around the room to peer at your guests" from fishing line to create the illusion of ghostly eyes looking around the room.
- Create Halloween-themed games. One game Ross suggests is "Ring the Witch Hat," where children "take turns trying to toss the five [paper plate] rings over the point of the witch hat."

Harry Potter Halloween party

About.com writer Donna Pilato said that people can turn their parties into Hogwarts (the wizardry school in the "Harry Potter" series) with multiple cues from the book and suggested that attendees dress up as characters.

How to create Hogwarts

- "[Buy] cauldrons and serve treats in them."
- "Create a Sorting Hat centerpiece for your buffet table."
- "Decorate your walls with lightning bolts and portraits of knights."

Ghostly games

Along with overall themes, there are plenty of games that are both child-friendly and easy to create.

Here are some games from AmazingMoms.com (www.amazingmoms.com).

• How Many Pieces are in the Jar?: Fill a jar with candy and have guests write down how many candies they think are in the jar. Whoever has the best guess gets the jar of candy.

• How Many Words?: Sort of like Halloween Party Boggle, older kids will try to find as many words as they can from the letters of SCARECROW or JACK-O-LANTERN in a set amount of time. For Sudoku and Scrabble fans, this game could even be fun for the grown-ups.

• Eyeball Relay: Sharon Mehl, who writes for Kaboose (party.kaboose.com), discusses a game where all parents need is a few spoons and a ping-pong ball painted like an eyeball. To play, divide the children into teams, and give each team a spoon. The children try to carry the eye on the spoon to the end of the course and come back and relay to the next child, until everyone has had a turn.

• Mummy Wrap: All you need is a chair, an adult/authority figure and a few rolls of toilet paper. Just sit in the chair and let the kids wrap you like a mummy.

Envirovenge: Throwing your gum out the car window, only to get home and find the wad of chewed gum stuck to the side of the car.

Scamples: Those lovely tidbits of food at the grocery store cooked in tiny toaster ovens that subconsciously influence you to buy an unscheduled package of, say, cocktail wieners.

If the title "Music Within" suggests to you the biography of a deaf composer, you'd be half correct.

Well, make that a quarter correct. Richard Pimental, played by "Office Space" star Ron Livingston, lost 50 percent of his hearing in mortar explosions in Vietnam. Pimental is not a musician, but an advocate for the disabled.

Somebody made a movie about Pimental because he pushed Congress to pass the Americans With Disabilities Act in the early 1990s.

When it comes to the qualifications for a biopic, getting legislation passed might not rank with being queen of England or assassinating Jesse James, but little-known people who change history behind the scenes deserve big-screen recognition, too.

The problem with "Music Within" is not its subject, but its approach.

Directed by newcomer Steven Sawalich and written by Bret McKinney, Mark A. Olsen, and Kelly Kennemer, "Music Within" is a standard, lackluster biopic that would be more at home on an inspirational cable network if not for its R-rated dialogue.

Pimental struggles first against his family circumstances — his mother (Rebecca DeMornay) is schizophrenic — and then against his handicap to become a successful public speaker and activist. Along the way, he becomes bitter and self-absorbed, pushing away his longtime girlfriend, Christine (Melissa George).

We watch Pimental become an angry drunk while his voiceover informs us, "I realized my heart wasn't driving me any more — my anger was."

Redundant narration often is a symptom of an unimaginative biopic. The constant use of classic rock songs is another symptom, which "Music Within" compounds with a mysterious four-year musical lag.

"Music Within"

Genre: Comedy/drama

Writers: Bret McKinney, Mark A. Olsen and Kelly Kennemer

Director: Steven Sawalich

More information: Rated R for language, including sexual references, and some drug content; running time is 93 minutes

Songs from the late 1960s play while the characters are in the early 1970s. A scene set in 1978 is accompanied by America's 1974 hit "Tin Man."

Livingston does a satisfactory job, but the only reason to take the trouble to see "Music Within" in a theater is to watch Michael Sheen's startling performance as Pimental's friend Art Honeyman, who has cerebral palsy.

"Music Within" wants to be an inspirational and affirming film, but it is filled with too many clichés and bland visuals. Both Pimental and the audience would have been better served if his life was told as a Public Broadcasting Service documentary. That way, his story might indeed come across as inspirational, and we might feel more confident that the events are accurate.

This Irish pub isn't content to just celebrate the Emerald Isle. Blackthorn Grille is a gourmet globetrotter, with an exceptional wine and drink menu, and an eclectic mix of entertainment.

Co-owner Fred Nielson said business has been booming since the restaurant opened three months ago. Fred, a developer, said he's owned the restaurant property for 40 years, which he formerly leased to Prime Time Saloon & Eatery. Fred and his partners, John Haley and Rob Hardman, have totally remodeled the building, transforming it into a welcoming bit of Ireland.

The Blackthorn Grille is decorated with a whimsical mural of the Irish countryside, and a magical path of shamrocks, which rambles through the restaurant. Warm wood details, stained glass lighting, and Irish sayings etched in glass invite you to relax and unwind.

The full bar offers an extensive selection of fine wines, beers, and mixed drinks.

There are 22 televisions scattered throughout the restaurant for sports fans. And, with a seating capacity of 200, the Blackthorn Grille can easily accommodate large parties.

Executive Chef, Marc Vitello, has created a gourmet menu with an international flair. Dinner selections range from a traditional shepherd's pie to "Clare Island Tournedos of Salmon": 2 peppered salmon filets—one seared with a brandy glaze, the other with Pinot Noir cream sauce.

Whether lunch or dinner, Blackthorn Grille is sure to satisfy with a choice of beef, ribs, chops, seafood, chicken, pasta, soups, salads, sandwiches, burgers, pizza—even stir fry. The restaurant has also added breakfast on the weekends. Breakfast selections include omelets, pancakes, and French toast. Fred added that pizza delivery was going to be offered in 2 weeks, as well.

The pub offers live entertainment almost every night of the week, including Irish music on Thursdays. Weekends feature a variety of live acts, from bands playing classic rock to dueling pianos.

Nielson also announced Blackthorn's first annual "Rocktoberfest" on Friday, October 26th and Saturday, October 27th. This Oktoberfest party will have Oktoberfest beers and a huge tent with band shell for the outdoor festivities. Fred said that "Rocktoberfest" would feature two of Lake County's best bands: "Modern Day Romeos" and "7th Heaven".

"We welcome everyone from the area to come see what we have to offer," Nielson said. "We are a 'Cheers' type of bar where people are friends and come to meet each other, and then there's the excellent food and entertainment."

It's not time to change

In this grand time of year, there are few things that can take the enjoyment away for me.

With football, girls volleyball and boys soccer in playoff mode and basketball just around the corner, it takes a lot to bring me down. But am I the only one who finds the new layout of the girls volleyball tournament a little disturbing?

This year, the IHSA made changes to the tournament layout. In years past, regionals were drawn out over a few days like most other sports. In 2007, it's a different game.

For regionals, the IHSA has the usual play-in game a few days before the main games begin. But once the play-in game is over with, it's one big volleyball bomb to the end. Two semifinal games are played back-to-back with the regional championship as a book-end.

In the regional layout, the top seed plays the fourth seed in the first game, while the second and third seeds duke it out in the middle game. Immediately after the second game is done, it's all or nothing for the championship.

This is very similar to the layout of most round-robin tournaments that volleyballers play all season long. But, it troubles me that whichever team wins the middle game must immediately take on the first game's champion. Or, typically, the top seed in the regional; and I don't like that.

Warren coach Julie Filippo said she also is unhappy with the changes. While she isn't so worried about upsets, she is worried about potential injuries to her players.

"We're not used to playing like that in a regional. It's not a normal tournament," Filippo said. "Maybe a lesser team would sneak though because they have better conditioning, but the chance of injury is higher."

But not everyone would agree. Wauconda coach Jonathan Grandt said that while it might make preparation a little more difficult for the teams, it's no different than an average weekend volleyball tournament.

"I wouldn't say that it makes too much of a difference," Grandt said. "Almost every team does five match tournaments in one day, so it's not very unusual."

Regardless of what it does for the teams, it does change the game. Let's hope this will make for a change for the better, but for my money I don't think it will.

Blue Devils bow out

Warren's season ends in regional championship loss

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

GURNEE - "Even coaches make mistakes." Those were the words from Blue Devil coach Jim McNamara as he spoke to his team after the game.

But even with his alleged mistake, the Blue Devils came oh-so-close to winning their own regional title against Lake Forest Oct. 20. Lake Forest upended Warren 1-0 in the IHSA Class AA Warren Regional en route to the Libertyville Sectional.

The game's one and only score came in the 35th minute. Scout sophomore Harry Shipp scored on a penalty kick for the 1-0 lead. That would be all Lake Forest would need.

After the game, McNamara was quick to blame the hard loss on himself. McNamara's self-blame came from a decision to substitute many of the Warren infielders for younger players just before the fateful penalty was called.

"I made a mistake," McNamara said. "We were playing well, but I disrupted the flow by substituting a lot of younger players in. You can't put that kind of pressure on the young guys and expect them to just go in ... That's why we gave up the penalty."

But Lake Forest's defense might have had something to do with the loss as well. Scout goalie Chris Weber earned a shutout and racked up seven saves. Meanwhile, Blue Devil goalie Matt Multz gained six saves of his own and allowed just one save. But Warren also took fewer shots at Lake Forest's because of the Scout defense.

"They [Lake Forest] possess the ball very well and we just couldn't get our shots in," McNamara said. "This loss has nothing to do with the kids. They worked hard, but it was just an error on my part that cost us the game."

Ruben Gaytan, of Warren, holds off Lake Forest defenders during the IHSA Class AA Warren Regional final. Lake Forest won 1-0 to advance to the IHSA Class AA Libertyville Sectional.

One year removed from a state runner-up finish in 2006, such an early exit was difficult. For the seniors, the loss was especially difficult because of the late-season push the Blue Devils made before the IHSA tournament.

"I'm disappointed. I felt like we've really played well at the end of the season," Warren senior Ivan Carranza said. "We've won the last four games before this and we thought we could carry it on in the postseason."

Carmel walks away as regional winner

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

MUNDELEIN - By the end of the first half of Carmel Regional championship game, the outcome was pretty clear - Carmel was going to walk away with a championship.

At the break, the Corsairs had already racked up three goals. In the second half, they didn't let up with two more as Carmel cruised to a 5-0 IHSA Regional championship win against Wauconda. The win qualified Carmel for the Libertyville sectional.

Corsair senior Edwin Lagunas showed his potency. Early in the game, Lagunas scored a solo shot and later fed teammate Kurt Houghton for the 2-0 lead. Colin O'Malley finished off the first half scoring off of an assist from John Zeffery.

In the second half, the Carmel offense didn't let up. Houghton, followed in Lagunas' footsteps with a solo goal in the 10th minute. Finally, Ari Sandoval scored the fifth and final goal in the Corsair victory.

"We really stepped up for this one," Carmel coach John Halloran said. "I would say that three of our goals were some of the best ones we've had all year."

Wauconda was fresh off of a blowout of its own after a 4-0 win over Waukegan. But as the tables turned against Carmel, Bulldog coach Terry Stevig praised the Corsairs' offensive prowess.

"They have a nice team, they're quick and they have a good attack," Stevig said. "They were giving us fits."

With the win over Waukegan, the Bulldogs (11-6-4) were hoping for something a lot better than the 5-0 result Carmel gave them.

"I was hoping for a strong contest. Now, it's not a lot of fun," Stevig said. "If you lose in a good, hard, close game, it's different than losing like this."

But what's most impressive of the Corsair team was the age factor: Four of Carmel's five goals came from the feet of seniors. Halloran was especially happy with the leadership from the Class of 2008.

"All the seniors played well for us today," Halloran said. "They scored most of our goals [and] they defended well. That's what you expect your seniors to give you in a big game like this."

Wauconda continues to battle

By DANIEL J. PATRICK
dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

VERNON HILLS — After years of waiting, it's finally time for a playoff celebration for Wauconda. After an overtime battle with North Suburban Conference Prairie Division rival Vernon Hills, the Bulldogs are a playoff team for the first time since 1998.

While Wauconda coach Glen Kozlowski has been waiting for his entire six year tenure, the players themselves have been waiting for their entire careers.

"It's amazing. We've waited four years for this," running back senior Jamey Carey said. "Most guys have been together since the eighth grade."

Meanwhile, the 5-4 Vernon Hills team was able to squeak into the playoffs as a No. 16 seed in the Class 6A bracket. But Vernon Hills coach Tony Hills coach Tony Monken said. Monken tried to slow Wisniewski (41 rushes for 179 yards and four touchdowns) with a gang-tackling nine-man front that slowed the work-horse back down. While he was his usual self with 129 yards in the first half, he was limited to 51 yards in the second.

Now that the Bulldogs have finally climbed over the post-season wall, Kozlowski and crew hope that Wauconda still have more football to play.

Bears quarterback switch affirmed

PHILADELPHIA — Considering Ron Turner's audio instructions weren't being received in Brian Griese's helmet during the Bears' game-winning drive against the Eagles Oct. 21, it seems like its time for everyone to smirk and make the obvious suggestion.

Forget that offensive coordinator in the booth.

Let that quarterback continue calling a majority of his own plays on the field.

After all, do you see what can happen?

Of course, Griese acknowledged after the game that he summoned many of the same plays that Turner would have signaled during a drive that started on the Bears' own 3-yard line and ended 97 yards and 103 seconds later with Mushin Muhammad cradling the ball in the end zone.

But that's besides the point.

What everyone should be appreciating after the 19-16 win against the Eagles at

Kevin Kaduk

Lincoln Financial Field is that the Bears appear to finally have a signal-caller who brings the confidence the position requires.

In the four games since he replaced Rex Grossman, Griese hasn't allowed any room for the critics to second-guess Lovie Smith's decision.

But with Griese leading the type of drive usually seen from quarterbacks with the last names of Elway and Brady, the 10-year veteran has started to affirm the swap with his own play.

First there was a short pass to Desmond Clark. Then a dump pass to Adrian Peterson over the middle. Then Hester shook off his confusion at the line of scrimmage to finally be allowed to influence the game with catches of nine and 21 yards on the final drive. By the time the drive was complete, Griese had found five different receivers for completions.

"I don't think drives like that happen if everybody doesn't believe," said Griese. "In the huddle on the 3-yard line, everyone believed."

That's the upside of this whole Griese-for-Grossman switch. With Griese leading, the offensive approach doesn't seem as desperate.

That alone has made the swap worthwhile.

So go ahead and say that "Brian is our quarterback." No smirks necessary.

Merit Building Supply: Your Local Home Improvement Advisor

By LESLIE GLAZIER-WERNER
lesonlife@sbcglobal.net

A home improvement project can be a daunting task. Luckily, Merit Building Supply has the products and expertise to guide you, along with warehouse-direct pricing. That's why the area's largest homebuilders and contractors shop there too.

Merit Building Supply has a full range of products for new construction or remodeling. The company offers cabinets, counter tops, windows, exterior doors, interior millwork, siding, gutters, decking, plumbing fixtures, and much more—all from leading suppliers. In addition, these products are backed by some of the best manufacturer's warranties in the business.

Owner Dean Sjog said he started Merit Building Supply 14 years ago with the goal of "making service a huge aspect of the company." As a result, the company has specialists on staff dedicated to making sure your particular project is a success.

For example, considering a new kitchen or bathroom? Schedule a free design consultation with Merit's cabinet design specialist, Linette. Planning on replacing those windows? Consult with a Merit window specialist. Then rest easy knowing that the company's in-house window installation specialists will complete the job. Dean also noted that the company has a fully staffed service department to handle any repairs.

Many of the company's products are on display in its 2,000 square foot showroom, so you can inspect your selections before you buy. There's also a full design center for kitchen and bath projects, as well as a showroom displaying high quality faucets and shower fixtures.

As part of Merit's emphasis on service, Dean added that his company makes every effort to educate the consumer on how to avoid home improvement scams. Instead, they try to point the customer in the right direction during every phase of a project. He said they also recommend reputable contractors. "A lot of people come here for our experience," Dean noted. That, plus warehouse-

1740 N. Circuit Drive
Round Lake Beach, IL 60073

Dear Joel,

I would like to express my gratitude to Hillcrest Nursing Center for taking such good care of our seniors here in Lake County. A nursing home with a great reputation is an asset to our community. I respect the fact that even when you cannot provide the services that a senior may need, you are always happy to assist them in finding the right alternative. I have always heard nothing but positive comments from the numerous families you have served over the years.

Joel, your genuine concern and compassion for seniors is the foundation for helping families cope with the stress of placing their loved one in a home. I have and will always support our elderly in my job as a State Representative. I believe they are our national treasures and deserve the very best care from compassionate and well-trained staff like you have at Hillcrest. Lake County is very fortunate to have such a valuable resource like Hillcrest Nursing Center. Thank you again for your commitment in serving our seniors.

Respectfully Yours,

Health Department warns residents of recalled pot pies

The Lake County Health Department/Community Health Center is advising residents not to consume certain ConAgra Foods frozen pot pie products. The company has voluntarily recalled all varieties of pot pies, including turkey, chicken and beef, because they may be linked to an outbreak of salmonellosis. Health Department sanitarians are contacting grocery stores in Lake County to ensure the recalled product has been removed from shelves. However, thus far there have been no illnesses reported in Lake County.

Western Family

These frozen pot pie products were distributed to retail establishments throughout the United States, Puerto Rico and the Caribbean islands. Based on product shelf life, these products could still be in consumers' freezers and it is important that consumers look for and return or discard and do not eat these products if they find them.

The Centers for Disease Control, State public health departments and U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food Safety and Inspection Service continue investigation into the multi-state illness outbreak.

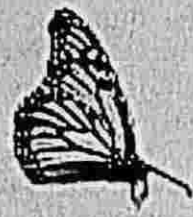

Consumption of food contaminated with Salmonella can cause salmonellosis, one of the most common bacterial foodborne illnesses. Salmonella infections can be life-threatening, especially to those with weak immune systems, such as infants, the elderly and persons with HIV infection or undergoing chemotherapy. The most common manifestations of salmonellosis are diarrhea, abdominal cramps, and fever within eight to 72 hours. Additional symptoms may be chills, headache, nausea and vomiting that can last up to seven days. Individuals who have recently eaten the recalled pot pie products and are experiencing any of these symptoms should contact their doctor or health care provider immediately.

Consumers with questions about the recall may contact the ConAgra toll-free hotline at (866) 484-8671 or visit: www.conagrafoodscompany.com/corporate/index.jsp. 25
YEARS

For the past 25-years, the law firm of Salvi, Schostok & Pritchard P.C. has been a name you can trust in Lake County. While you've come to know us as the law firm that has successfully represented thousands of Illinois residents in their catastrophic personal injury and wrongful death cases, we are equally proud to be a good corporate citizen—an employer of hard working local residents and financial supporter of numerous Lake County community groups and organizations.

You don't have to go far to find us. While we have grown into a nationally recognized law firm with cases across the county, our headquarters is still located down the street in Waukegan, and all of our name partners live in Lake County. You can still pick up the phone and speak personally to Patrick Salvi, Michael Schostok or David Pritchard at 847-249-1227 to discuss the merits of a possible case.

We remain committed members of our community, and we thank you for 25-years of trust in us.

Stars On Cars helps customers judge vehicles for safety

(NAPSA) Since September 1, automotive consumers have had another valuable tool to help them make informed choices regarding the safety of the vehicles they're considering buying.

The new law, part of a provision in the U.S. Department of Transportation's 2005 Highway Bill, "Stars on Cars," requires automakers to post the results of both crash test and rollover ratings from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) on all 2008 vehicle window stickers.

The law is called Stars on Cars because of the star-rating system NHTSA uses to test and rate new cars in front and side crash tests and in rollover avoidance tests. Five stars indicate the best possible safety rating for vehicles within the same weight class.

More than a year ahead of the government's September 1 deadline, Ford Motor Company has been posting the government's safety ratings on many of its vehicles.

The NHTSA crash results are posted on the window sticker alongside information that is already provided, such as the manufacturer's retail price, safety and convenience features and EPA fuel economy.

The vehicles included the Ford Explorer, Mercury Mountaineer, sport utility vehicles, SportTrac, the Ford Five Hundred and Mercury Montego large family cars—all of which earned the highest possible five-star ratings in the crash test categories.

In addition to earning five-star crash test ratings, several vehicles—including the Ford Five Hundred, Mercury Montego and the new 2008 Taurus, Sable and the Taurus X crossover—also earned Top Safety Pick ratings.

Revolutionary BuildersTrust warranty eliminates construction fraud and risk

If you've ever thought about hiring a builder to craft a new home or enlisting a remodeler to update your existing one, you've probably felt that unmistakably unsettling sensation in the pit of your stomach—the one they call uncertainty. After all, embarking on a new construction or renovation project typically involves some degree of risk on the homeowner's part: risk of the contractor not completing the job on time, risk of shoddy workmanship and materials, and more.

John Hochbaum's goal is to diminish those doubts and level the playing field so that provider and client alike are guaranteed a happy ending.

Recently launched nationally by Hochbaum's Resolution Assurance Group—a Chicago-based warranty provider—BuildersTrust is a new type of home construction warranty product that may just revolutionize the industry. The product works like an insurance policy, protecting homeowners from getting burned by unscrupulous contractors and also safeguarding contractors from the risk of an unsafe job site or not being paid by homeowner clients.

"If you're a homeowner, just imagine the benefits," said Hochbaum, President/CEO of Resolution Assurance Group. "You no longer have to fear an unfinished job, poor craftsmanship, inferior products or a contractor breaking his promises."

Up until now, a homeowner's only defense against builders or remodelers who didn't abide by the terms of a contract was to force the contractor to take out a high-priced, collateralized surety bond (often required by home loan lenders) or file a time-consuming, expensive lawsuit. And a contractor's only recourse against delinquent payee clients was to hire a collection agency or pursue costly legal action.

"BuildersTrust, on the other hand, eliminates the steep legal fees, long wait and red tape involved when a dispute arises," Hochbaum said. "It provides priceless peace of mind to homeowners and contractors alike."

In the event of a dispute that cannot be privately resolved, a claim is filed by either party with BuildersTrust, and the claim is sent to arbitration through an impartial third party. The arbitration process, which is much simpler and less expensive than using the court system, is usually completed within seven to 45 days (as opposed to a court case that can last months or even years).

BuildersTrust guarantees the prevailing party full compensation within 14 days of the arbitrator's ruling (while there are no limits on the contract amount, the warranty does not cover claims under $1,000 or exceeding $125,000, although rider policies are available to cover higher claims).

"In the event that the contractor cannot or will not complete a project, the homeowner can enlist a BuildersTrust-certified contractor to finish the job," said Hochbaum, "under the same terms of the original contract and at no extra cost."

The price for a BuildersTrust warranty is significantly less than what would otherwise be paid for a surety bond or legal fees. Typically, a surety bond amounts to as much as 5 percent of the total projected cost of the project—a tab that's picked up by the contractor but passed on to the homeowner via a higher estimate. A BuildersTrust warranty, however, amounts to only 1 percent of the project's expected cost (never exceeding 1.25 percent).

"Take, for example, a family that wants to hire a builder to construct a $500,000 new home," said Hochbaum. "To minimize its risk, the homeowner's lender requires the contractor to purchase a surety bond that can cost $25,000—which will increase the construction bid to approximately $525,000. The contractor will also have to put up collateral to purchase the bond, thereby increasing his liability."

But if that same family were to hire a BuildersTrust-certified contractor to build the same $500,000 home, a BuildersTrust warranty would automatically be included in the construction contract, at a cost (already paid for by the contractor in its policy premium) of no more than $5,000.

The homeowner can rest easy knowing that the contractor will get the job done as stipulated in the fine print—"on time and on budget," added Hochbaum. "And the contractor is assured of timely and complete payouts on the job."

A BuildersTrust warranty is only available to contractors that enroll in the BuildersTrust program, which requires the contractor to:

- Belong to a reputable industry association: Currently this includes the National Association of Homebuilders (NAHB), National Association of Remodelers Industry (NARI), and Contractors.com (more organizations will be added soon).

- Register online at www.builderstrust.biz as a BuildersTrust-certified contractor.

- Pay a premium for 12 months of BuildersTrust coverage, which equates to approximately 1 percent of the sales for most contractors over the course of the 12-month coverage period.

- Include the BuildersTrust warranty form in every new contract and get the client to sign it.

Hochbaum introduced BuildersTrust in June 2007 throughout the continental United States.

For more information about BuildersTrust, visit www.builderstrust.biz or contact John Hochbaum at (866) 894-5431.

Offer only available in select locations and is not available in conjunction with other pricing discount offers. Rate and points offer available only in participating locations, vary by location, and not available in conjunction with other pricing discount offers. Must apply by 11/03/07 and documents must be signed by 11/17/07. Consult your tax advisor. Payment Information: You may select either an interest only or a 1-1/2% minimum payment option. You also have a fixed rate, fixed payment (Fixed Rate Lock) option described further below. If you select the minimum payment option of interest only, and do not pay any more than the minimum payment that's due, you will not reduce the principal amount owed. This is a variable rate product and under either payment option your rate can change each month. If the index goes up your rate will increase and your minimum payment will increase. Under either option your payment can increase significantly based on the amount of any interest rate increase. At the end of 10 years if the maturity date is not extended then the minimum monthly payment amount you must pay will increase significantly as the minimum payment will include principal as well as interest. At maturity amounts owed of $10,000 or more have a 20-year repayment period of principal and interest and amounts of less than $10,000 have a 10-year repayment period. Fixed Rate Locks (FRL): If you choose FRL feature (other than 7 year interest only) to lock in a fixed rate and fixed payment on any part of your line then your minimum payment will be large enough to pay off the FRL advance and interest over the term you select. **To earn the special offering of 25,000 bonus points you must advance $25,000 or more at closing during the promotional period (8/20/07-11/03/07); points will be awarded within 90 days after line closing. To participate in the points from National City program you must have a National City checking account with a Visa® CheckCard enrolled in the points from National City program. You earn bonus points only if you are the first-named signer on the line, you do not have any other open Equity Reserve line of credit or Home Equity Installment Loan at the time of enrollment or within 12 months prior to enrollment. National City reserves the right to change or limit the terms of "points from National City". Additional terms, conditions, and certain exclusions apply. ## Great Rooms wins two awards

LIBERTYVILLE - Great Rooms Designers & Builders, Inc., a Libertyville-based remodeling and custom home design-build company has been named a silver award winner in two categories of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago's (HBAGC) 2007 Key Awards. According to the HBAGC, the Key Awards, announced this month, recognize excellence in housing design, architecture, interior merchandising, landscaping, landscape architecture and remodeling.

"It is truly an honor to be recognized by such a revered organization. We treat every project as a potential award-winner so we were thrilled to win in both the categories we entered this year," said Craig Wolski, president, Great Rooms Designers & Builders, Inc.

One category entered included an entire home renovation with a budget of $250,000 - $500,000. The home that Great Rooms renovated is located on Farm Road in Lake Forest. Rather than tear down and rebuild, the owner chose to bring a completely new feel to an older home by creating a more open floor plan for a growing family. The project scope included a new family room and kitchen, new deeper basement under an addition, new master bath and enhanced master bedroom, new exterior facelift with front porch and all new windows, mechanicals, and exterior siding and roof. The result - a complete home maker-over that is commensurate with any new custom home built today.

The second winning project included a kitchen renovation in an older tri-level home on Sheffield in Glenview. Great Rooms created a dramatic and elegant atmosphere by vaulting the ceiling, adding new appliances and cabinet and opening an interior wall to join the breakfast room and the kitchen. Outdated and uneven, the floor of the kitchen and two adjacent rooms were replaced. The budget could not exceed $75,000. The project was completed in just 45 days.

Don't let the holiday hustle get to your muscles

Condell Medical Center's OT and PT therapists offer free advice for de-stressing LIBERTYVILLE - The holiday season is busy, and the hustle and bustle can leave you feeling buggy. But an ounce of preventative muscle stretching will leave you very merry indeed. Join us on Thursday, November 15, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. for a free informational session on the importance of relaxation during the holidays. The event will be held in the Adult Day Room at Condell Medical Center's Day Center for Intergenerational care, located at 700 Garfield Ave., Libertyville, on the hospital's main campus.

Occupational Therapist Elaine Kempers, OT, MS, and Physical Therapist Allie Solomon, PT, MHS, will discuss and demonstrate preventative stretching techniques; principles of good body mechanics; and other relaxation techniques that promise to leave you humming from turkey day to New Year's day.

Fox Lake cooperation lauded in flood control efforts

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

FOX LAKE Fox Lake village officials could take a collective sigh of relief and received a pat-on-the-back for a job well done in handling flood water at the end of August.

Fox Lake Emergency Services Disaster Agency director Ed Lescher and Street Department Supervisor Dan Miller were thanked for their tireless efforts. Also, various groups, from Grant High students to Fire Department and Police Department youth Explorers and a church group from Gurnee and residents for their sandbagging efforts. About 15,000 sandbags were distributed.

"We had so many volunteers; we were blessed," Fox Lake President Cindy Irwin said.

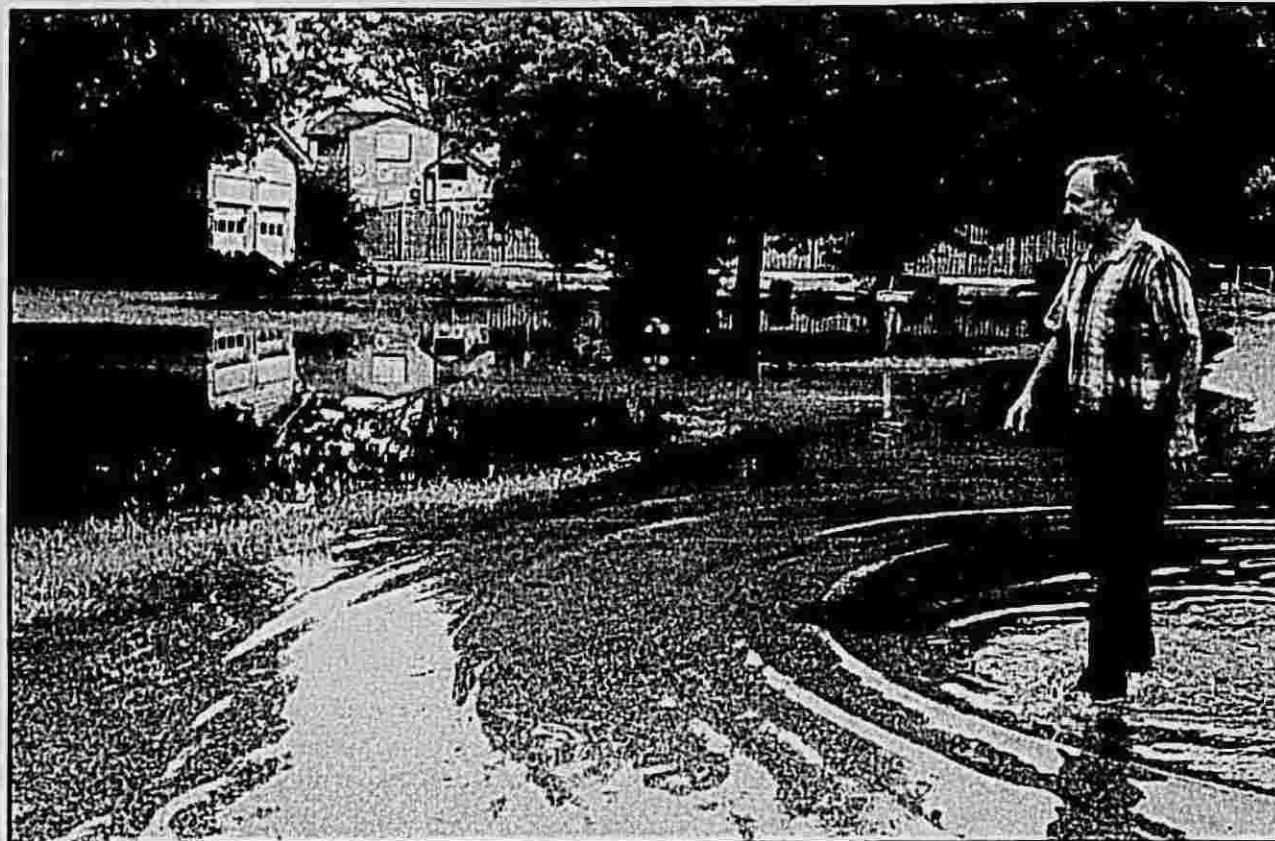

"Staying ahead of the game," Lescher said of the key to the efforts. About 100 homes or properties were impacted by the floodwater, Aug. 18-28. Lescher said that through Red Cross, there will be clean-up kits available.

Cooperation was lauded, from the Grant Township loader to a donated forklift. Fire Department Explorers built sandbag walls around homes of the elderly who could not do it for themselves.

A slide show of various flooded areas was shown at the Aug. 28 village board meeting. Also, Gov. Rod Blagojevich came to Fox Lake Aug. 24 and announced that Lake and McHenry counties were declared state disaster areas.

Lake County Administrator Barry Burton gave a report on the flooding from the county's perspective to Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce and Industry members as the waters receded.

"Lake County ordered 300,000 sandbags, in addition to what the townships have done and what the villages have done," he said. "We have issued about 180,000 sandbags through the county. The county has also been issuing bottled water to those residents with well contamination. If they have wells, they could go to the three Lake County Health Department sites, one

Grant Township Supervisor

► From the Township Supervisor

On starting my sixth year as supervisor, I still find every day to have something special to offer, as many new things are happening at Grant Township Center. Following was one of the achievements of the Grant Township Board.

Grant Township Mission Statement: To provide quality services with innovative and responsible use of resources for an evolving Grant Township community.

It has been a driving force for Grant Township to put a Strategic Plan in place and this was accomplished in February 2007 with the support of the University of Illinois Extension where four top goals were developed:

1. Lead for better collaboration between municipalities, communities, agencies and interested groups.
2. Increase local resident involvement.
3. Maintain and expand successful programs for the betterment of the community.
4. Create senior, youth and family services.

In organizations, whether a local government, a business, or a civic club, effective planning is more complex because it requires that we bring all our individual perceptions along with experiences and visions to the process.

The strategic plan will help our present official and future boards to stay on track in identifying the needs of our community.

Grant Township is able to accomplish many different services through monetary donations and volunteers giving of their time to provide services for people of all ages. I extend a big thanks to all who have contributed time and effort to provide such great accomplishments.

The Grant Township Senior Committee has been diligently working on service to offer senior citizens. For example, the committee has been working on presenting seminars and activities.

The most exciting thing is seeing the hundreds of children that are involved in the athletic programs, playing at the "Field of Dreams." The volunteer effort is what makes these programs great.

Watch for our next newsletter, as it will have some of the new services and programs that will be available soon.

The Grant Township officials and staff thank you for your continued support. Visit our office at 26725 W. Molitor Rd., Ingleside, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. We are here to serve you, so come see what we have accomplished and for additional information, call (847) 740-2233.

Grant Township offers Field of Dreams

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

Soccer, football and cheer-leading hold court this time of year at Grant Township's Field of Dreams.

Seeing the fields used to their capacities for practices during the week is one of the rewarding aspects of the job for Grant Township Supervisor Kay Starostovic.

"We're looking for some more land, to be secured in the future, but we would not do anything without voter approval," Starostovic said. "It is great to see the fields used to their capacity. It is overwhelming for football."

Winter does not mean that the field use goes away, as the township property off Molitor Road may be used for snowmobile trails of Mother Nature allows.

Future needs include a planned for storage building and a sewer connection to area Lakes Region Sanitary District's system.

The supervisor is proud of the many programs, from the Adopt-a-Family and Christmas baskets, to food drives and the summer township picnic. The township also sponsors the Miss Grant Township pageants. "The queens have been great at going to events," Starostovic said.

The township picnic, despite the heat, was a financial success. It included a craft fair and 5K run. Those events may be split up to different days in the future. December marks five years since she was appointed supervisor following the death of Gordon Kiesgen. She had served as township clerk.

Township offices are at 26725 W. Molitor Road, Ingleside.

Grant High plans expansion with no rate hike

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

Grant Community High School Board of Education is asking the community to support a school expansion plan.

A referendum will be on the ballot on Feb. 5 to issue $28.5 million in bonds to expand the facility. If approved, the tax rate will remain the same, 2.053.

"The volunteer steering committee has met and people are coming forward," said Paul Jakstas, co-chairman of Grant Citizens Helping Students. "This is part of a long range plan for the district, which has watched the student enrollment growth and looked at it to see if it made sense. We have gone to subdivision meetings."

The high school's current enrollment is 1,745 students. It could grow to 2,300 students by the year 2014. Recent building additions were approved in 2000 by referendum, from 931 to 1,650 students, then in 2005 by impact fees, from 1,659 to 1,750 students. Projections show the campus at capacity in 2009-10.

The tax rate would decrease if the bonds are not approved, but the decline would be for one year. Meanwhile, the students would keep coming and construction costs would increase, officials said.

The plan calls for a school that would accommodate 2,300 students. There would be 111,400 additional square feet of additional space, with 21 classrooms, state-of-the-art science labs, art studios, family and consumer science labs, a new activity center-field house. A section of the school built in the 1930s would be torn down.

"When people understand that this will accommodate growth until 2014 and there is no tax rate increase, then they are very supportive," said Kim Schnoor, co-chairman of the citizens group. "The community has a long history of supporting the high school. Grant's credibility is very high."

"The projections have been right on target," Superintendent John Benedetti said.

The steering committee will host public forums in the near future.

There would be a multi-phase approach. The first phase would be to the east side of the property with science wings and classrooms. The second phase would include a two-story physical education center, complete with an indoor track.

Future enrollment projections show a 1,752 to 1,880 student range in 2008 to 1,864 to 2,096 in 2011 and 2,034 to 2,308 in 2014.

OWP&P will be the architects and IHC, Inc. the general contractor. For more information, check the Web site at www.gchs2008.org, or contact Schnoor at homesale@mind-spring.com or Jakstas at pjakstas@aol.com.

» From the Chamber President

The Fox Lake Area Chamber has wrapped up its summer event season and is now moving on to the winter activities. We offered a new event this August – a Motorcycle Rally that brought people from Milwaukee to Joliet into our town. Our annual Boat Show also brought people from all over the metro Chicago area and surrounding states. And our golf outing was enjoyed by all. Whether you are a golfer or not, everyone is welcome to attend to play golf, check out the auction items or just join us for dinner.

The Chamber is offering something new this holiday season - a Gingerbread House Contest. Sign up for one of the 2 - night class sessions in October or November and learn how to build and decorate your own. The contest is open to all ages and will be divided into 7 groups. Each group will then be hosted by one of 7 Fox Lake businesses and be on display during the holidays, so everyone can stop in to see them and vote for your favorites.

Santa and Mrs. Claus will join us again on Saturday, December 8, from 3-7 p.m. at Lakefront Park for his Santa Spaghetti Supper. Everyone is invited to join us for dinner and the activities. Planning is underway for our 2008 Business Family Expo for Saturday, March 1, 2008 at Grant High School. A record 80 community businesses, organizations, home-based businesses and local restaurants participated last year and we have more planned for 2008!

Please check out our website at www.discoverfoxlake.com for our business directory and any upcoming events and what's happening around town. For more information, call the Chamber Office at 847-587-7474.

Local effort to help troops off and running

By STEVE PETERSON
speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

FOX LAKE – Good news travels fast, such as Fox Lake's F.L.A.S.H. effort, Fox Lake Area Supporting Heroes.

"So far, they all love it," organizer Karen Jakstas said. "I have received a call from Germany from a soldier about it."

A second shipment of non-perishable items has been sent to troops serving in all areas.

"We will go with it until they all come home," said Jakstas. "The best thing, is we send items that they have requested and will be used."

Jakstas, the village's community liaison, said the response has been great. Items may be dropped off at several area locations, including: American Legion Post 703 U.S. Route 12, Fox Lake; Mineola Hotel, 91 Cora Avenue, Fox Lake; Second Federal Savings & Loan, 2 E. Grand Avenue, Fox Lake; Fox Lake Village Hall, 66 Thillen Drive, Fox Lake and The Channel Inn, 89 E. Grand Avenue, Fox Lake.

All items will be shipped to central collection points in North Carolina and Connecticut and then forwarded to the troops who have specific needs.

Jakstas said further shipments have been sent.

For more information about F.L.A.S.H., call Tom Herring at 847-973-3474 or Jakstas at 847-587-2151, ext. 3883.

Police reach out to community

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

Whether it be an informational program for senior citizens, meeting with business owners, efforts to reach out to youth, Fox Lake Police Department shows community policing at every turn.

Progress can be seen inside the police department, too, with expanded classroom and workout areas and a secure sally port area.

"I see the community programs getting larger and larger. It is the outreach that is the community policing at its best. I think the reaction to us and us to them has been very positive," Police Chief Mike Behan said.

The department, at 301 S. Route 59, has 26 sworn officers. Special duties include School Resource Officer at Grant High School, Regan Cruz; and the DARE officer, Matt Malczewski.

Behan started with the Fox Lake Police in 1981.

Some of the ongoing programs in the police department are:

Subdivision meetings: Behan meets with subdivision associations to hear their concerns and explain programs.

Business owner meetings: Behan meets with business owners each Friday to hear their concerns.

Senior citizens: "The number of seniors we have talked to has doubled," Behan said. "We talk to them about scams, and they are very aware of that. We also talk to them about losing their driving privileges, which is not the end of the world."

Citizens Police Academy: "It is in its third year," Behan said. "The first year, we had to go out and advertise for people, the next year we had 40 applicants. We have about five already for the third year. It is an educational thing, from April to July, and they get a feel for what we do."

Shop With a Cop: The effort assists children identified by school districts. About 52 students, ages 5 to 12, were assisted last year; this year, it could be 100. The event will be Dec. 5 at Wal-Mart in Antioch. Students buy presents for brothers and sisters, or groceries.

New Year's Eve Safe Ride Program: Using staff from Fox Towing and Terry's Towing, rides home are offered from 10 p.m. Dec. 31 to 3 a.m. Jan. 1, 2008. The rides are good for the Fox Lake area.

Police department building improvements: Working on improved locker rooms, and workout and classroom areas; also good for classes or if other law enforcement agencies have need to use the area. Also, the firing range has been improved.

Behan said future endeavors include continuing to raise funds to buy and train a new K-9, after Grimm, the previous dog, died in March.

Museum offers glimpses of past

By STEVE PETERSON

speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

FOX LAKE - A group of Grant Community High School graduates, now living from Maine to California, recently stopped back to look at their township's past.

The chance to do that takes place each Sunday, from 1 to 4 p.m. at Grant Hall Museum, 411 Washington St. in Fox Lake. The site is the former Grant Township offices, now operated by Fox Lake-Grant Township Historical Society.

"They were just very enthusiastic," said Nancy Kubalanza, president of the society. "One man said that he has a shoe repair shop and would return and see what he could donate to the museum. They lived all over, but all seemed to have a tie-in to Grant Township."

The museum has added to the school exhibit with more scrapbooks and yearbooks, Kubalanza said.

Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce recently had a meeting there and there are regular tours, such as the Grant grads and Boys and Girl Scouts. The area Alliance of Historical Societies has also met at the former township office center.

"They were really glad that we have such a place, to preserve the past," Kubalanza said.

Margaret Drozd is the office manager for the museum.

ager for the museum.

At the museum, one can find out about the rich history of area resorts, schools including a paddle signed by former students of a long-time teacher, information on former Gov. Bill Stratton who is from the area, and Ann Margarot.

Diane Brumbach does a good job coordinating the docents, or volunteers, Kubalanza said.

One can view old Fox Lake police dispatch equipment, learn about the Mineola Hotel, the Lippencott and many other landmarks. Grant High donated a charter signed in 1930.

Then there is a photo of the old Main Street in Fox Lake when it was flooded in 1924. One can also learn about industries that kept the area going, such as the arrival of railroads and the ice industry and see an ice saw.

For more information, call leave a message at 847-587-0544.

Current Historical Society leaders are Kubalanza as president; Ted Beskow as vice president; Bobbie Scott as treasurer; Geri Majkowski as recording secretary; Virginia Sayles as corresponding secretary and Paul Jakstas and Ruth Stark as trustees.

There will be a general meeting on Nov. 21 and election of officers, at 9:30 a.m. and from 2 to 4 p.m. Dec. 2 is the holiday social. Basic membership to the Historical Society costs $10.

Building department works on 'Fox Lake North'

By STEVE PETERSON

speterson@nwnewsgroup.com

FOX LAKE—The look of the future for Fox Lake's north side will begin to take shape as Thelen Sand and Gravel officials present post-mining operation plans.

The area has been called "Fox Lake North."

Zoning Board of Appeals members completed their work on the plan, as they forwarded a positive recommendation to the village board for the overlay district. The plan is a mix of commercial and residential uses and has been approved by Fox Lake trustees.

"It is an overlay district for the north side of Fox Lake," Fox Lake Building Commissioner Bill Hart said at an earlier plan commission meeting. "It started with the comprehensive plan. Staff and Thelen's staff and planner have been working on this for six to eight months. What we are considering is a text amendment change which will allow the framework for the project."

Thelen's project remains the largest residential plan. Cambridge Homes at Holiday Park is in its last buildings and Windsor Homes off Route 59 is about to turn over its infrastructure to village control.

Thelen background

Developers said that the site is unique because it is in control of one owner, the Thelen family, and is so large.

The area will be developed after Thelen Sand & Gravel ends its mining operation. Amenities include lakes as well as required open space and recreational areas.

Steve Thelen, company president, said that the land was annexed to Fox Lake in 1986 and additional land in 2000.

"We want to look ahead to the future," Thelen said. "Short term is five years in the mining business, and long-term means reclamation. We want to work with the village to create an opportunity for the village to grow."

The land is part of Nippersink Elementary District 2 in Spring Grove, Richmond-Burton High School and Antioch school districts.

Issues include how water and sewer would service the more than 1,000 acres. Options include connecting to Northwest Wastewater Water Reclamation Facility run by Fox Lake, upgrade the Tall Oaks plant on State Park Road or a stand-alone station for the area. Hart said the stand-alone method was preferred.

The total acreage is 1,125. The suggested plan calls for 110 acres of residential in one area, 170 acres for manufacturing-industrial and 850 for residential and a 650,000 square foot location for a big box retail.

"We're located perfectly within six or seven miles of major north-south routes. We want to get it on the market before users decide to go to Spring Grove or Richmond," Mike McCullough of Stonecrest Development said.

Planner Larry Dierczak of Allen Krackower and Associates said that there would be low density single family detached housing; medium density single family; high density single family housing and commercial.

"The Route 173 and Wilmot Road area is an important arterial road and needs to be looked at for commercial," he said. "This is a unique piece of land, the gateway to Fox Lake from the north, east and west. It will be connected to historic Fox Lake."

Focus group assists library's expansion plans

By STEVE PETERSON

speterson@nwnewsgruop.com

Fox Lake District Library has consulted library district residents on the subject of how services might be improved and what should be included in a new library facility if it is approved by voters.

A referendum to finance the expansion of the Fox Lake District Library might be on the Feb. 5 general primary election ballot.

At the board of trustees' invitation, a focus group of 12 library users and residents of the Fox Lake District Library's service area met three times to discuss library development issues under the leadership of library consultant Richard E. Thompson.

The purpose of the meetings was to guide the library board and staff as they refine plans to ask the voters to approve "a significant expansion or an outright replacement of the library," according to a library press release.

"Working with the focus group was a joy," Fox Lake Head Librarian Harry J. Bork said.

"There was so much enthusiasm, and so many good ideas and helpful suggestions, far exceeding our expectations. It was a true example of private citizens stepping to the place to work for the public good."

The focus group deliberations proceeded as informal discussions in the library meeting room on three Saturday mornings spaced two weeks apart. Under consultant Thompson's leadership, the group addressed "Current Realities (where the library is now); "Vision for the Future (what could be improved); and "Bridging the Gap" (how the improvements could be implemented).

With regard to a new or expanded library building, the focus group was concerned that a new library be large enough to serve the growing population of the library's service area.

The service area includes most of Grant Township and some smaller areas of Antioch and Burton townships. The library is projecting its service population to at least double by 2030. An expanded or new library facility of somewhat more than double the size of the current library is being planned, Bork said.

Focus group members were presented with concrete options for construction of a larger facility. Conceptual floor and site plans developed by library architects Burnidge Cassell Associates were presented and explained by Bork.

A majority of the group favored keeping the current library building and constructing an addition to equal the size of the facility the board is planning. Other options were to retain the entire current building, or to build an entirely new library facility on the current site off Grand Avenue.

The focus group discussed the current library collection and rated the importance of book materials versus audio-visual materials, with a majority feeling that books were still more important.

The focus group felt that the library's juvenile department, located in the facility's basement, did not have a welcoming feel as those at other libraries, and that more could be done to advertise its location in the building.

The need for the children's activity center, where programs could take place without interrupting other library use, was also discussed. Also, the need for an area devoted to young adults.

The necessity of a large library meeting room was emphasized. Group members also saw a need for after-hours access to the library meeting room, so that groups could use the space at times when the library facility was not open.

The need for small group study rooms and larger conference rooms that could be used by groups was also highlighted.

A cafe lounge, a relatively new concept incorporated in a number of new library buildings, was supported by the focus group. An expanded Fox Lake District Library building might include an "Internet Cafe" in which library users could drink coffee and soft drinks while using the library's wireless Internet service via their own laptop computers.

Hauntings ready to scare heartiest

LAKE COUNTY JOURNALS

X-treme Hauntings
Haunted House is back.

The scary fun resumed Sept. 28 and runs until Oct. 31, at the corner of Sayton Road and Honing Road in Fox Lake. For more information, call 847-702-7227.

Admission cost is $12 per person, Fridays, Saturdays through Halloween, $10 on Sundays.

The haunted house returns this year bigger and better than ever, with many rooms to scare the heartiest of souls, along with the "The Dark Maze of Death" that has been made larger and with a few shocking upgrades.

"The props are all new this year. We have more variety to please more audiences," organizer John Violetta said.

Several groups and businesses have worked to make the haunted house a reality. They include Fox Lake Explorers, Nutty Sports Bar, Dominoes of Fox Lake, Rush Printing, Fratello's of Volo, Rookies Sports Bar in Ingleside, and Exclusive Auto. Fox Lake Self Storage provided the location.

"We're located around the corner this year from last year's location. I want to do everything possible to stay in Fox Lake. We have a lot of high school kids who come in and help out. They learn a good work ethic," Violetta said.

Organizers tout its location, near Lake Zurich, Wauconda, McHenry County and parts south. The organizers said this is not recommended for children under age 12.

Beat rising rates with nontraditional mortgage

(NAPSA)-Whether it's a dream home, vacation property or retirement condo, consumers face a housing market this year in which climbing interest rates are driving up the costs of buying a home.

Shopping for-and financing-an affordable home has become an increasingly daunting process in many frenzied markets. The median national home price now hovers around $224,000, but prices in hot areas often soar well above.

To address this dilemma, mortgage lenders have introduced a new crop of "affordability" loans, and homebuyers are turning to them as a means to comfortably manage their home financing over the long run. These nontraditional loan products are designed to create a reasonable monthly payment and eliminate dreaded rate increases and "pocketbook shock" from payment resets.

In fact, according to Opteum

Financial Services, one of the nation's fastest-growing residential lenders, "affordability" mortgages-such as fixed-rate interest-only products, longer-term (40-year) fixed-rate mortgages and 80-20 loans-are exploding in demand. A few years ago, fixed-rate interest-only mortgages barely existed. According to another financial services firm, UBS AG, these loans now account for around 8 percent of all new residential mortgages taken out in the U.S., and they're growing each month.

Here are some major trends to watch:

Long-Term, Fixed-Rate Interest-Only Loans

Interest-only (IO) loans have received the most headlines in recent years, but as interest rates creep upward, many consumers-including first-time homebuyers-are shying away from short-term IO loans in favor of longer-term fixed-rate IOs to avoid upward payment adjustments.

"Affordability" mortgages, such as fixed-rate interest-only products, are exploding in demand.

John Palmiotto, senior vice president for Opteum, says, "Since the average American keeps a mortgage for less than 10 years, fixed-rate IO loans can often help homeowners leverage their buying power in the beginning. After 10 years, when the loan fully amortizes, the assumption is that the borrower's income will also have grown and thus can comfortably absorb the remaining principal portion of the payment."

Momentum of 40-year Loans

While 30-year fixed mortgages have been the "blue-chip" standard, 40-year fixed-rate balloon loans are now gaining major popularity. The appeal is that these loans offer a "happy medium" payment nearly halfway between an interest-only loan and a 30-year fixed. The drawback is its long pay-back term of 40 years.

The best approach for buyers is to work with their loan officer to educate themselves about the variety of product offerings out there that not only manage their cash flow but that will also be the best choice for their personal financial situation.

Cause for alarm: What parents miss when childproofing

(NAPSA)-As new parents prepare for the arrival of their baby, they'll likely make safety a top priority. They put poisons out of reach, cover up unused electrical outlets and install safety gates. But experts say parents may miss the deadliest threat in the home for small children.

A new survey conducted by Kelton Research revealed that only 11 percent of parents surveyed believe a home fire is more likely than their baby accidentally falling or being poisoned. While falls occur more often, fires are more deadly.

Fires and burns are the leading cause of unintentional home-injury deaths for children over age 1 and the second-leading cause for infants, according to the Home Safety Council's State of Home Safety in America.

"New parents undoubtedly have safety on their minds," said Meri-K Appy, president of Home Safety Council.

"However, the misplaced safety concern3s revealed in this survey show a greater need for educating new and expectant parents about the risk their baby could face regarding fires and burns."

According to the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA), children under age 5 face nearly twice the risk of dying in a home fire than adults. While the NFPA reports that adults are more likely to develop a fire escape plan after they have children, 78 percent of the Kelton survey respondents have never conducted a home fire drill.

"In addition to working smoke alarms, families need to take all necessary precautions to help protect themselves and their children in the event of a house fire. This includes having fire extinguishers within reach and regularly practicing a fire escape plan," said Chris Rovenstine, vice president for Kidde Residential & Commercial.

Steps to Take Before Bringing Baby Home

Parents can easily incorporate fire safety into overall childproofing plans:

- Install UL-listed smoke and carbon monoxide (CO) alarms near sleeping areas and on every floor of your home. For optimal protection, install both photoelectric and ionization smoke alarms, which may provide the earliest opportunity of detecting either smoldering or fast-flaming fires.
- A combination alarm offers protection against both fire and carbon monoxide (CO) in one unit. Look for one with voice warning, such as the Kidde Talking Alarm, which will clearly announce the hazard present, fire or CO.
- Test alarms per manufacturers' instructions and replace batteries as needed.
- Replace smoke alarms every 10 years and CO alarms every seven. Alarms monitor the home every minute and do not last forever. If you do not know the age of your alarm, replace it.
- Do not "borrow" an alarm's batteries for other uses such as in toys or radios.

- Keep a UL-listed fire extinguisher (minimum 2A-10B:C), such as the Kidde Living Area Fire Extinguisher, on each floor and in your bedroom. A fire extinguisher can help put out a small, contained fire or aid in creating a pathway to safety.

Steps to Take as a Family

- Develop and regularly practice a fire escape plan.
  - Include two exits from every room and also details such as who will assist young ones out of the home. An escape ladder can be an alternate exit from second- or third-floor rooms.
  - Practice your plan at least twice a year, both during the day and at night.
  - Close your children's bedroom doors. If a hallway fire occurs, a closed door could hinder smoke from overpowering your child and give firefighters extra time for rescue. Keep a working smoke alarm and baby monitor in the room so you can hear if the alarm sounds.
  - Teach toddlers not to hide. Remind them that firefighters are there to help.

Take action now to avoid winter home damage

(NAPSA)-Ice dams. They may not exactly be a household word, but they cost the public millions of dollars each year, when ceilings and walls are ruined as a result of winter water seepage.

Ice dams usually form when warmth from inside a home causes snow on the roof to melt and trickle to the roof's edge, where it refreezes, blocking gutters and drains. Since water cannot flow over the built-up ice, it seeps into the home under the shingles.

"If your house is susceptible to ice dams, it's a good idea to take action before weather conditions threaten your home," says Mike Convery, chief claim officer for MetLife Auto & Home.

Steps To Take In The Fall:

- Keep all gutters and downspouts clear. Make certain that leaves, sticks and debris are removed completely from your home's gutters and downspouts.

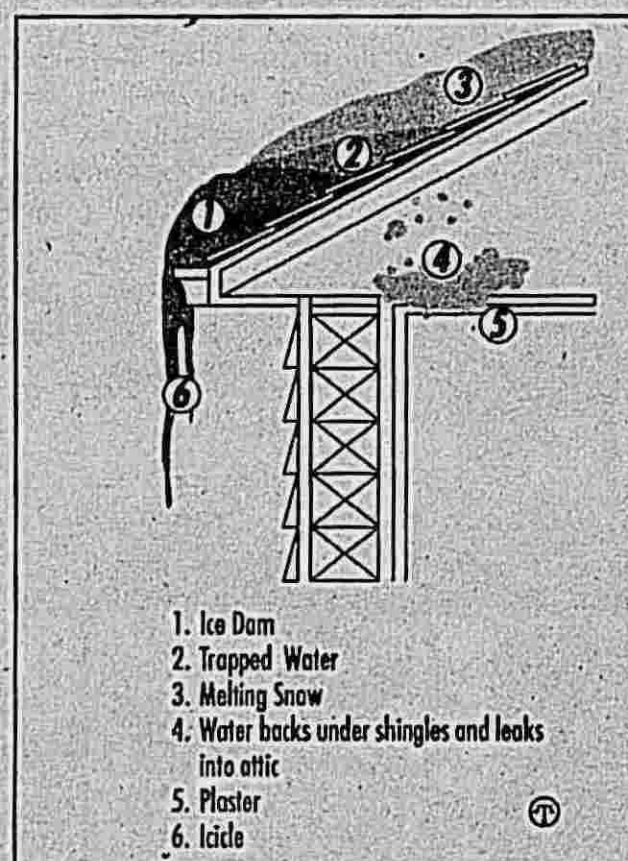

- Keep your attic chilly. The most effective way to eliminate ice dams is to stop snowmelt by making the roof colder. This can be achieved by insulating the floor of the attic and under the roof, and by blocking all crevices (known as "bypasses") where warm air from the interior can rise into the attic.

- Identify water entry points within the home. You may wish to contact a contractor to locate these entry points and take the appropriate actions to create a waterproof barrier.

Steps To Take In The Winter:

- If possible, keep snow off the roof with a snow rake. Use a roof rake or push broom to reduce the amount of snow that could melt. Do not climb on the roof to clear the snow as serious injury may result. Also, be cautious of electrical wires.

- To melt the ice, bring new life to an old set of Melting snow trickles to the roof's edge, creating an ice dam, which in turn creates internal leaks.

legs. It may sound strange, but placing old nylon stockings filled with snowmelt on an ice dam is an effective way to melt the dam and create a channel for the water to run off. Be certain to lay the stockings perpendicular to the gutter near the edge of the roof.

In an emergency situation, where water is seeping into the house, the best advice is to notify a professional contractor.

Fall home care tips: The health dangers of excess moisture

(MS) — Did you know that excess levels of moisture or relative humidity in your home provide ideal environments for contaminants like mold and dust mites, which are known allergens for many people? Elevated levels of moisture can also contribute to structural damage within a home's walls, attic, foundation and exterior.

Fortunately, there are steps you can take to regulate the level of humidity in your home. Here are some helpful tips from, Gerry Gagnon, Product & Market Manager for Venmar Ventilation, a leading expert in indoor air quality management, to help you control the potential hazards created by excess moisture.

- Daily activities in the kitchen and bathroom can introduce large amounts of water vapor and other contaminants into the home. Install and maintain hood exhaust fans of sufficient capacity over your kitchen range and in your bathrooms. Locate intakes where they can capture the most moisture and make sure that bath vents exhaust air outdoors and not into your attic or other interior space.

- Elevated levels of humidity can cause moisture problems including window condensation, structural rot and mold growth. To help control humidity and remove excess moisture levels from your home, consider installing a mechanical air exchanger system. "For exceptional results, you can look to the most recent innovation in the industry — Venmar's air exchanger," Gagnon said. "Venmar is the first manufacturer of ventilation systems to offer a unit that integrates heat recovery ventilation technology with HEPA filtration at an affordable price."

"The system works to provide fresh air through ventilation and at the same time ensures the best indoor air quality by trapping airborne allergens such as pollen, dust, pet dander mold and bacteria through its HEPA filter system."

- The exterior and interior of a home should be well-caulked, especially around windows and vents, to prevent water leaks. Without caulking, mold growth and structural problems may occur. "If you are building a home, insist that your builder install a proven waterproofing system, drain tile and vapor retarder to your home's foundation," Gagnon added. "A water-managed foundation can greatly improve indoor air quality by preventing problems associated with moisture."

- Make sure a home's roof and windows are in good shape. Water leaks, condensation and elevated levels of humidity may not be visible, but moisture in interior wall spaces can encourage mold growth and structural degradation.

- It's important to route water away from your home's foundation. Keep gutters and drains clean and in good repair. Be sure downspouts have a five percent slope to carry water away from your foundation. More information on the benefits of ventilation is available at www.venmar.ca.

Does your HVAC need a little TLC?

(NAPSA) — Just like your car, your home heating system requires routine maintenance in order to run properly. Without regular servicing, heating systems can waste energy and are more likely to break down. But with the proper attention, your system will keep you warm all winter long.

According to the experts at Luxaire, a brand of heating, ventilating and air-conditioning (HVAC) equipment manufactured by Johnson Controls, there are a few basic tips you and your local HVAC contractor can follow to ensure your heating system operates properly.

A Few Basics

- Inspect Your System — A close inspection will uncover leaks, soot, rust, rot, corroded electrical contacts and frayed wires. In furnace (forced-air) and boiler (hot-water) systems, the inspection should also cover the chimney, ductwork or pipes, dampers or valves, blower or pump, registers or radiators, the fuel line and the gas meter or oil tank, as well as every part of the furnace or boiler.

- Run Your System — Your heating system should be run through a full heating cycle to ensure it has plenty of combustion air and chimney draft. Contractors use smoke pencils to check for sufficient draft and also test the air for carbon monoxide.

- Clean the Burner and Heat Exchanger in Furnaces — Scour the burner and heat exchanger to remove soot and other gunk that can impede smooth operation. For the burner, efficiency hinges on adjusting the flame to the right size and color, regulating the flow of gas or changing the fuel filter in an oil-fired system.

- Check all the Components of a Heat Pump — Inspect the compressor, fan, indoor and outdoor coils and refrigerant lines. Indoor and outdoor coils should be cleaned, and the refrigerant pressure should be checked. Low pressure indicates a leak; to locate it, contractors feed tinted refrigerant into the loop and go over it with an electronic detector.

Annual Maintenance

Luxaire recommends contacting a qualified contractor to perform some of these maintenance activities as part of an annual service call. Heat pumps and oil-fired furnaces and boilers require a yearly tune-up. Since gas-fired equipment burns cleaner, it should be serviced every other year.

Energy neutral products take homeowners to the next level

(MS) — With the "green" trend continually growing, many homeowners are swapping old air conditioning units, heaters and appliances with more energy efficient models. While purchasing ENERGY STAR® appliances and green rated products is a major step forward in being environmentally conscious, there are additional options for homeowners to take eco-friendly living to the next level.

Energy neutral upgrades and products, ranging from awnings to radiant barriers, provide an additional reduction in cooling energy consumption and costs associated with even the most energy-efficient appliances.

According to futurist Mark Justman of Social Technologies, a global research and consulting firm, there is a growing nucleus of homeowners who value ethical consumption, but often consider a big appliance purchase the only solution.

Other energy-neutral home solutions that Justman recommends include:

- Awnings — when added above a window or door, an awning reduces the amount of heat that enters a home by blocking the sun's rays from penetrating the glass. Keeping excess heat out reduces the load on the air conditioner, allowing the unit to cool the space more efficiently. Learn more at: www.awningstoday.com/rel/energyneutral.htm

• Solar window screens — screens that install on the outside of windows, allowing protection from the sun's heat and a little added privacy.

- Radiant barriers — structures made of highly reflective material, typically installed in attics, that reflect radiant heat upward, preventing it from entering the home.

- Conservation landscaping — includes planting of shade trees or hedges near a house to block sun from penetrating windows during the summer. Conservation landscaping can also act as a windbreak, protecting homes from icy winds in the winter.

Awnings are an energy neutral way to take eco-friendly living to another level.

- Caulking and weather stripping — when installed around windows, doors and cracks, it reduces air infiltration, keeping cool air in during the summer and out during the winter.

- Programmable thermostats — they automatically adjust a home's temperature settings, allowing homeowners to save energy while away or sleeping. Programmable thermostats are better for the environment, since using less energy helps reduce greenhouse gas emissions associated with energy production.

With heating and cooling accounting for about 56 percent of the energy used in a typical U.S. home, according to the U.S. Department of Energy, homeowners are able to utilize energy neutral products to improve their home's energy efficiency.

"Solar radiation through glass is responsible for nearly 20 percent of the load on an air conditioner," said Michelle Sahlin, managing director of the Professional Awning Manufacturers Association (PAMA). "Awnings have the ability to limit the sun's rays through glass, which directly reduces the impact of global warming from greenhouse gas emissions. In addition, if a neighborhood collectively uses awnings, it reduces the overall demand on the energy infrastructure, subsequently preventing black outs."

Change the look of your kitchen for less. Budget-friendly options like modern laminates have the look and feel of natural engineered stone.

How much is that new kitchen going to cost you?

(MS) — If you're like any of the more than 7 million new owners of existing homes sold last year, you're probably looking at taking on remodeling projects that will update both style and functionality. And the kitchen is probably at the top of your "to do" list.

The average, minor kitchen remodeling job will cost about $18,000 while a major kitchen remodeling project may cost up to $107,000! If you're planning a kitchen remodel in the near future, here are some ideas that can save you money in the process, or leave you with extra money for the "must haves" on your project list.

Cabinets are generally the most expensive part of the remodeling project. Custom-built cabinets offer an unlimited number of options, but are also the most expensive. Semi-custom cabinets offer a good alternative. With the number of styles, material and hardware available today, you can have a custom look without a custom price tag. Also, refinishing your existing cabinets can provide an updated look without the cost of replacement.

Consider one of the new luxury, laminate countertops rather than solid surfacing or granite. You could have money left over for the stainless steel appliances you want. And you will be pleasantly surprised with the look and quality of modern laminates. Today's laminate is extremely durable and easy to clean which is a real advantage for today's busy families.

If you want the look of stainless appliances, but aren't ready to pay the price, consider ordering basic appliances with front "trim kits." You can apply a metal or laminate look-alike panel to the fronts of refrigerators and dishwashers, and you've got the look for less.

Making trade offs in options is one cost-saving step. Another way to maximize your budget is to consider doing some of the work yourself to save on labor costs — which typically are about 20 percent of the project cost.

Depending on your abilities and the time you have available, you can save by removing existing cabinetry and countertops at the beginning of the project and painting the room yourself at the end of the project. It's usually a good idea to leave electrical, plumbing and installation work to the experts.

A little planning before your project starts and maybe a little elbow grease of your own can get you that new kitchen that fits your lifestyle as well as your budget.

Give your child's room the ultimate makeover

Paige Hemmis of "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition" on room redecoration

(NAPSA) - Kids' likes and dislikes change as they grow. Favorite colors, toys, hobbies, sports and what they want in their rooms can change from year to year. The traditional "out-with-the-old" spring cleaning-getting rid of unwanted clothes, shoes and toys-takes place in the early months each year. Redecorating and helping kids create a special place of their own can take place year-round.

A room redecoration project can be a fun family activity, providing parents and children with quality time and lasting memories. To make the most of all room décor projects, skilled carpenter and homebuilder Paige Hemmis, from ABC's "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition," offers tips to help parents successfully redecorate on every size and budget:

- Ask for Decorating Suggestions from the Child-A great way to make a child's room a special place for him or her is to choose colors, furniture and décor items that he or she likes. For inspiration, kids can visit www.pollypocket.com to play a fun game that allows them to help decorate Polly's "Beautiful Bedroom" online by choosing fun colors, furniture and accessories.

- Follow the Child's Lead-Support his or her ideas, even if they don't necessarily work out. This is a chance for kids to be creative and express their thoughts.

- Go Shopping Together-Visit hardware and fabric stores with the child and let him or her help pick out unique paint colors and fabrics for his or her room.

- Dare to Mix More Costly

Items with Budget-Friendly Finds-Adding inexpensive, plain wood or plastic shelving to a child's room allows him or her to decorate each shelf in a way that best suits his or her personality and won't break the bank.

- Choose Accessory Pieces that Reflect the Child's Interest-Room décor items that highlight his or her favorite dolls and toys, such as the Polly Pocket(tm) Bubble-Tastic(tm) Lamp that glows in four different colors and the Fountain Falls(tm) Playset that doubles as a cool water fountain for kids' rooms, are terrific room accompaniments. Decorative pillows in their favorite colors and shapes are also fun accessories.

- Personalize the Space-Give children the feeling of ownership in their rooms by adding personalized items and creating special spaces for them to customize. The Polly Pocket(tm) Stylin' Sticker Maker(tm) Playset lets children create their own stickers with ease, allowing them to decorate picture frames, journals or just about anything. In addition, the Polly Pocket(tm) Twirl and Swirl(tm) Jewelry Case opens to reveal three levels of storage for small dolls/accessories and personal items; it also comes with fun stickers for decorating.

- Enjoy Spending Quality Time Together-Make sure to stop and enjoy time well spent while collaborating on the decoration project.

Room decoration projects are great ways for parents to learn more about-and embrace-their child's ever-changing likes and dislikes. By using Paige Hemmis' tips, parents can tailor room décor projects to fit their child's wants and their budget's needs.

Good timing opens door to new homes

(NAPSA)-While the adage that real estate is all about location, location, location may still hold true, timing can be just as critical. In today's fast-paced world, technology makes it possible to do things quicker than ever before-and finding the right home is no exception.

Today, the majority of buyers are beginning their home search on the Internet. Browsing listings online provides access to photo galleries, virtual tours, floor plans and detailed lists of amenities that help buyers learn more about a home than previously possible. This added knowledge often speeds up the decision-making process. In fact, it's not uncommon for people to buy a home after simply viewing the house online or seeing it once in person.

To avoid missing out on the home of your dreams in a competitive market, it is important to act fast. Unfortunately, Internet inquiries are often not responded to promptly, if at all.

However, companies such as ERA Real Estate (www.era.com) may help change that. The firm uses cutting-edge technology called DirectAccess Powered by ERA LeadRouter to quickly connect buyers and Realtors. The tool converts inquiries from buyers viewing the company's properties online into voice calls that go directly to a sales associate's cell phone. This ensures that buyers can make an appointment to see the properties they are interested in as quickly as possible.

The technology helps home sellers as well, by reducing the chance of losing an interested buyer due to a lack of timely follow-up by their sales associate.

Once a sales associate contacts you, timing continues to be important. Make sure you are working with a real estate professional who responds quickly to your questions and needs throughout the buying process.

Silent hazards to your health and home

(MS) — When you hear the word pollution usually the first picture that comes to mind are large clouds of smoke billowing from factory smoke stacks or a line of countless vehicles spewing exhaust fumes. In fact, the majority of people still blame poor indoor air quality on outdoor air pollution. But this is simply not true.

Did you know that outdoor air pollution only counts for a fraction of indoor air pollution?

According to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) the Indoor Air Quality (IAQ) of the average home can be up to 100 times more polluted than outdoor air.

Invisible pollutants produced by common household substances, plus dust and excess humidity that get trapped in today's houses, can increase your risk of chronic respiratory illness and your home's risk of serious structural damage.

Today's airtight homes often lack the ability to "breathe" freely. Trapped, stale air and excess humidity can lead to mold build-up, unpleasant odors, condensation on windows, and even structural damage to your home.

Pervasive irritants such as dust, dust mites, cigarette smoke and other pollutants commonly found in household air may increase the risk of chronic respiratory illness, allergies, sinusitis, frequent headaches, coughing and asthma.

Recommended solutions to improve IAQ

According to the American Lung Association the most effective ways to control humidity and remove excess moisture and pollution levels from your home, apart from source control, are ventilation and filtration of circulating air.

More information on the benefits of ventilation is available at www.venmar.ca.

Business Information:

Origins

Brothers Andrew and Thomas Parkinson founded Peapod in 1989 in Evanston, IL. The Parkinson brothers' goal was to offer a convenient way for consumers to accomplish their grocery shopping.

The Early Days

Peapod first began picking orders right from the shelves of the local supermarkets. In Chicago, they partnered with Jewel Food Stores, in San Francisco with Safeway, in Ohio with Kroger and in Texas with Randall's. In these early days, Peapod partnered with the grocery stores just to fill the orders, but it soon became evident co-branding with the store was the route to survival. Peapod was by far ahead of the curve, and was fast becoming the format of the future.

Joining Royal Ahold

In 2000, Peapod entered into a partnership with Netherlands-based international food provider Royal Ahold; in mid-2001, Royal Ahold purchased the remaining outstanding shares of Peapod, positioning the e-retailer to emerge as the leader in the online grocery industry.

Peapod's Service Model

Peapod has one model (centralized distribution) with two formats (warehouse/fast-pick center and warehouse). Both provide next-day delivery, capitalizing on a supply chain that keeps the cold chain intact. This allows us to use the assets of the store as we open markets, and then transition to warehouses as our business grows; leveraging the power of Ahold stores helps us to maximize quality, minimize out-of-stocks, control inventory and provide superior service.

Customer Service

Peapod prides itself on exceeding customer's expectations and providing friendly and superior service for each and every customer. The company stands by its 100% Satisfaction Guarantee - meaning that if something about the shopping experience or order is not to a customer's liking, Peapod will make it right.

Careers

Join the Pod! At Peapod, we're in search of true Podsters. Professionals who are full of enthusiasm, eager to amaze and delight our customers, every single day. Go-getters who are willing to do whatever it takes to get the job done. As a part of Peapod, one of America's leading Internet grocers, you'll receive the opportunity to enhance your career. And to join a team of passionate, hard-working individuals who are as dedicated as you. We're currently seeking Drivers, Warehouse Product Selectors and Customer Service Representatives.

Benefits

We provide excellent full-time benefits including health, dental, vision, life insurance, 401K with match, holidays, vacation, sick days, employee stock purchase plan, flexible spending account, direct deposit, credit union and short/long term disability.

Nail the Interview: New Process Awaits Job Seekers

Gain a leg up on the competition during job interviews.

As the old saying goes, "You never get a second chance to make a first impression." For job seekers, truer words were never spoke. Particularly today, when job openings attract applicants like honey does bees, setting yourself apart from the legions of others applying for the same position can prove quite difficult.

A greater number of graduates paired with an oversaturated market of individuals looking for new work has only increased the competition. More than ever before, job seekers are fighting an uphill battle to get themselves noticed, a battle that seemingly grows more demanding with each passing day.

Such a reality only heightens the importance of making a strong first impression, one that will make you stick out in the interviewer's mind, hopefully earning you a second interview along the way. While nearly everyone is aware that appearance and education go a long way toward making a positive impression, there are several other areas job seekers can address to make themselves stand out from the rest.

• Preparation.

In addition to knowing all about yourself, you should know about the job you're applying for as well. Candidates who enter interviews with little or no knowledge of the open position rarely, if ever, get a second interview, much less a job offer. Research the position as well as the company. Don't be afraid to write down questions that might arise during that research and refer to them throughout the interview. Doing so will show the interviewer you're genuinely interested in the position and the company, setting you apart from applicants just looking for a job. Include in your research any recent company developments that perhaps made headlines in the news.

• Expect the unexpected.

A side effect of the boom in job seekers is that recruiters are expanding their horizons to better whittle the applicant pool. While in the past interviews were more predictable with respect to questions asked, the wide and largely qualified applicant pool many job openings create has forced recruiters to ask less predictable questions to help them choose between otherwise equally qualified candidates. Therefore, preparing for such questions can be a great way to set yourself apart.

In addition to the more traditional inquiries, topics such as conflict resolution, problem solving and how well you work with others are now subjects many recruiters prefer to broach. The more specific your answers, the more likely you are to stick out in the interviewer's mind. A popular trend among many interviewers is presenting hypothetical situations and asking applicants how they might deal with such situations. Think about the job before your interview and what situations might arise that the interviewer could present hypothetically. Strong responses to such questions will certainly make you stand out.

• Be mindful of mannerisms.

Though most job seekers are smart enough to look the part with a nice suit and haircut, many don't realize their behavior during the actual interview. Regardless of how nice your suit is or how good your hair looks, fidgeting, failing to make eye contact and even taking too many notes while the interviewer is speaking can distract the interviewer from you and what you have to say. Even if your insides are racing, appear as calm and collected as possible on the outside.

If offered a glass of water, take it. You'll want to speak as clearly as possible anyway. When responding to questions, be mindful of how long you've been speaking. While you'll want to avoid "yes" or "no" answers, rambling on will only make you appear nervous and ill-prepared.

Discover That Dream Job

Now just may be the time to find a job that works for you.

Whether you're unemployed or working but entertaining thoughts of moving on, finding a new job is an involved process that takes lots of commitment and hard work. Sifting through job openings can be akin to finding a needle in a haystack.

Searching through that proverbial haystack, however, is even more difficult when you're forced to compete against hundreds of others doing exactly the same. But finding a job, and doing so quickly, doesn't need to be so difficult. The following tips should help cut down on the trials and tribulations of looking for work.

• Network.

Recognizing you're not the only one looking for a job is essential to finding one you really want. Recruiters' inboxes are overflowing with the resumes of potential applicants, so you need an edge. Where most job seekers find the most success is through word-of-mouth. Family, friends, former co-workers or anyone else you have regular contact with outside of your current office can all be great sources of information when looking for a job.

• Get organized.

Keep track of your job-searching efforts. Finding a job can be a drawn out process, as recruiters typically must sift through large applicant pools before setting up any interviews. Keep a separate file on all jobs you've applied to, complete with a job description and copy of the cover letter and resume you sent to that particular job. Keep these files easily accessible and organized, as you never know when you might be contacted by a prospective employer.

• Know what you have to offer.

Examine your strengths and work on communicating those strengths. Effectively explaining what you do best is your best chance of landing that dream job, so practice illustrating how your skills apply to each position you're seeking and how those skills can benefit the company.

• Customize your letters and resumes.

No two jobs are the same, so no two sets of cover letters and resumes should be the same, either. Tailor each letter and resume to the specific job you're applying to. In particular, cover letters should emphasize specific skills that might apply to each job. Save all cover letters and resumes under different filenames as well, as you'll want extra copies of each should you be granted an interview.

• Stay motivated.

Particularly if you're unemployed or working part-time until you can get back into your field, the process of looking for a job can be defeating. Tales of finding a job early on in the process do exist, but more often than not the process requires sending out plenty of resumes and dealing with lots of rejection. It's a process that everyone goes through, not just you. Keep working hard and you'll find that, in due time, opportunity will come knocking. Following all of these tips will make sure that once that knock does come, you'll be prepared to answer the call.
